A fond farewell

Antioch Deputy Police Chief Ron Roth retired from the department July 7 after 28 years working his way up the ranks. Roth's career in law enforcement began in North Chicago.

Deputy chief retires after 28 years at Antioch Police Department

By TARA CLIFTON
tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH — Deputy Chief of Police Ron Roth stood outside the station one sunny day, laughing and joking with a friend.

An elderly woman, slightly hunched over, smiled as she approached Roth and politely interrupted. She said she had accidentally locked herself out of her car.

"Oh, that happens to all of us at some point," Roth said. He told her someone would help her.

But the woman soon came back because nobody had responded yet.

Roth excused himself from his conversation. "I'll be right there," he told the woman, and then he walked off.

This simple act of kindness and duty is just one example of how Roth has carried out his law enforcement career, say those who know and have worked with him.

Roth's last official day with the Antioch Police Department was July 7. Retiring after 28 years with the Antioch police, Roth, 52, said he's ready to try something different. He will take the summer off and probably get a job doing public or private security for the county.

"Since I've been here, I've done everything you can do here," Roth said. "You name it, I've done it."

Police Chief James Foerster said that Roth's position won't be filled because he is working on changing the administrative structure. Foerster said he has worked with Roth for the 23 years he's been with the Antioch Police Department.

"It's going to feel odd when he's gone," Foerster said. "When you work with somebody for that long ... there's going to be a void."

Good questions find good questioners

What do we look for when we look for reporters?

Like nearly all newspapers, we want people who like to write—and are reasonably good at it.

We want people who are curious about things and not afraid to ask questions.

We want people who are willing to put the public interest first in their search for the truth, regardless of po-itics or ideology.

Here are some of the questions we ask of prospective reporters when we attend job fairs:

- Have you ever held a non-journalism job? (Work ethic is important.)
- Have you ever traveled to a foreign country? (The best way to understand our country is to leave it for a while.)
- Have you ever studied a foreign language? (The best way to understand our language is to learn another one.)

• Have you ever diagrammed a sentence? (Taking sentences apart is the best way to learn how to put them together.)

If you have questions, we will look for answers. Write to llough@nwnewsgroup.com.

Thanks for reading the Journal.

Lake Villa Fire Protection District officials plan to complete construction on their new station by January 2008 and hope to open the station by May 2008. The station, which will be the district's third satellite facility, is on Grass Lake Road in Lindenhurst.

Lindenhurst fire facility under construction

By TARA CLIFTON
tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

LINDENHURST — Captain Brock Millsop spoke excitedly about the upcoming Lake Villa Fire Protection District's third satellite facility.

He said that construction is moving smoothly, and that everything is right on schedule.

"Progress has been going well," said Millsop, who works for the fire protection district. "The weather is on our side, just a bit warm."

County and local authorities have worked together for years to make the new station a reality, the first fire station to be built in Lindenhurst. The other two stations are in Lake Villa.

The station, 2.5 acres, will be located at 1911 Grass Lake Road.

Millsop said that roughly 75 percent of the cinder block area is finished, and about 50 percent of the roof is complete.

Millsop said that the station should be built by January, and officials hope it will be ready for use by

May.

The station will have to be outfitted with appliances, bedding, furnishings, fire trucks, equipment, and more, Millsop said.

But with as much as people have pulled together to get this far in the project, Millsop said he thinks the cooperation will continue.

"We have great community support out there too," he said.

These Services Help SAVE GAS!

1. Drive Sensibly

Aggressive driving (speeding, rapid acceleration and braking) wastes gas. It can lower your gas mileage by 33% at highway speeds and by 5% around town. Sensible driving is also safer for you and others, so you may save more than gas money.

2. Observe the Speed Limit

Gas mileage decreases rapidly at speeds above 60mph. Each 5 mph you drive over 60 mph is like paying an additional $0.10 per gallon for gas. Observing the speed limit is also safer.

3. Remove Excess Weight

Avoid keeping unnecessary items in our vehicle, especially heavy ones. An extra 100 pounds in your vehicle could reduce your mpg by 2%. The reduction is based on the percentage of extra weight relative to the vehicle's weight and affects smaller vehicles more than larger ones.

4. Avoid Excessive Idling

Idling gets 0 miles per gallon. Cars with larger engines typically waste more gas at idle than do cars with smaller engines.

5. Use Cruise Control

Using cruise control on the highway helps you maintain a constant speed and, in most cases will save gas.

6. Use Overdrive Gears

When you use overdrive gearing, your car's engine speed goes down. This saves gas and reduces engine wear.

7. Keep Your Engine Properly Tuned

Fixing a car that is noticeably out of tune or has failed an emissions test can improve its gas mileage by an average of 4.1%, though results vary based on the kind of repair and how well it is done. If your car has a faulty oxygen sensor, your gas mileage may improve as much as 40%.

8. Check & Replace Air Filters Regularly

Replacing a clogged air filter can improve your car's gas mileage by as much as 10%. Your car's air filter keeps impurities from damaging the inside of your engine. Not only will replacing a dirty air filter save gas, it will protect your engine.

Worker receives backlash from Grayslake trucking company

After blowing whistle, truck driver finds it difficult to get work

By TARA CLIFTON
tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

LAKE VILLA — Speaking before a congressional subcommittee, John Simon appeared nervous but controlled. With his eyes on the papers before him, Simon told the panel how he had inadvertently earned the title of whistleblower, and how his life hasn't been, and might never be, the same.

Simon, of Lake Villa, was one of two witnesses who had filed federal complaints against an employer about illegal practices. The other witness was Jeffrey Wigand, known as the man who brought down big tobacco.

"I just went and spoke, and didn't really realize how nervous a person can get," Simon said.

The Subcommittee on Workforce Protections, under the U.S. House of Representatives' Committee on Education and Labor, had invited Simon to speak on May 15 because they needed to hear from people who had won their cases, Paul O. Taylor, Simon's attorney, said.

The subcommittee's aim was to determine what legal protections are needed for people like Simon.

Taylor said that not enough protections exist, and the courts spend too much time handling such cases, which could discourage others from coming forward to report illegal practices.

Taylor is an attorney with Truckers Justice Center in Burnsville, Minn.

"Why would anybody blow the whistle on illegal practices by an employer knowing that it would take three to five years?" Taylor said. "It's a very cumbersome, time-consuming process."

In Simon's case, the process started more than two years ago, and a complete ending doesn't seem to be in sight.

In December 2004, Sancken Trucking, based in Grayslake, hired Simon to transport jet fuel from East Chicago, Ind., to airports in Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, according to a court report.

After about a month on the job, Simon said, he filed complaints with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration because he said that his employers did not allow him to keep travel logs, a violation of Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration regulations.

OSHA dismissed his complaint in March.

Truckers must fill out travel logs, Simon said, when their hours worked in one shift exceed 16.

"I can only speculate why they didn't want to keep the logs," Simon said. "I was just not willing to falsify federal documents to keep my job."

James Sancken, part owner of the trucking business, said he would not comment unless he consulted with his lawyer. He did not return phone calls.

Sancken's attorney, Richard J. Puchalski, did not return phone calls seeking comment.

Even though OSHA dismissed Simon's complaint, the FMCSA conducted a compliance review of the entire company, checking to see whether Sancken met U.S. Department of Transportation standards.

According to copies of the review, Sancken received an unsatisfactory rating in several categories, including failing to require drivers to keep travel logs and failing to ensure that vehicles were free of oil or grease leaks.

The review states that Sancken agreed to follow FMCSA recommendations and pay a fine of $2,620 in order to continue business.

Soon after the FMCSA completed its review, Simon was told that his early morning Monday-through-Friday shift

"I just went and spoke and didn't really realize how nervous a person can get."

John Simon

Former truck driver from Sancken Trucking was no longer available. Sancken heads said that the only shift available was Thursday to Monday at $100 a day, which Simon said he could not do because it was less pay and he would have to find care for his daughter on the weekends.

Court records state that Sancken employees did not tell Simon that he was scheduled to work his previous morning shift the next day. But when he did not show up for work, Sancken officials fired Simon.

According to the court records, Sancken claims that Simon knew he had to work that day.

Ever since his firing, Simon's life has been full of lawyers and court battles, he said.

Simon filed another OSHA complaint in April, saying that he had been unfairly fired, and that Sancken was upset with him for filing charges with federal authorities.

While the legal battles ensued, Simon bounced from job to job, but couldn't keep steady work because of what had happened with Sancken, he said.

He still hasn't been able to hold down work.

In January 2006, Administrative Law Judge Daniel L. Leland ruled in Simon's favor, and ordered that Sancken rehire him to his original job immediately. Leland also ordered Sancken to give him back pay of $18,55.82 plus interest, $721.54 a week from the ruling date, and also awarded emotional distress damages of $5,000. The judge also called for Sancken to remove any adverse references in its personnel files related to Simon.

"We're happy we won the case at the initial stage," Taylor said.

However Simon still has not received any money from Sancken, he said.

And when Simon returned to his job, Taylor said, Sancken refused to return him to his old job, which violated the court order.

Taylor said he filed a civil lawsuit to force Sancken to hire Simon back. It took nine months, he said.

Simon said he didn't go back to the trucking company because he felt that he was not wanted there.

Taylor said the delays in the legal system make it harder for whistleblowers to step forward.

"I think the country should be outraged by the long delays within the Department of Labor," Taylor said. "When somebody blows the whistle it protects all of us."

Simon, though, is just trying to get by. The case has taken a toll emotionally and financially, he said.

His Lake Villa house is for sale, and Simon said he wants to move away to a place where no one has heard of him or Sancken Trucking.

"Right now my life is so messed up," Simon said. "I'm not sure what I'm going to do."

But he firmly believes that he acted rightly, and said he hopes others have the courage to stand up against what they see as wrong.

"If you stand up for yourself," Simon said, "you might be invited to create new laws to protect other people."

Residents plead to board to stop fighting

Community has village's best interest in mind

By TARA CLIFTON
tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH — A crowd of residents sat in fold-out chairs in the Antioch Fire Department's garage on Holbek Drive, listening intently as the Antioch Village Board carried out another tension-filled meeting.

And just as each board member has seemed to take sides in a power struggle, the audience also was divided. For example, one side clapped and cheered when something positive was said about Village President Dorothy Larson, while the opposite side groaned in disagreement.

However, several residents seemed to have one opinion in common: Please get along.

Many commented to the board that the in-fighting that has filled Village Hall and newspapers is embarrassing the community.

"It seems that after every meeting in the village the news reporters have a field day with quotes from our officials blaming someone for something," Antioch resident James Friedman said. "Working together to solve the problems of the community is what is needed."

Some people, especially those closely involved in village affairs, implored the trustees to start working together.

Laurie Stahl, director of the parks department, said

"Please work together and show respect. Please do what is right for my hometown."

Laurie Stahl

Director of Antioch Parks Department that the board is letting politics get in the way of doing what is best for its constituents.

"Please work together and show respect," Stahl said. "Please do what is right for my hometown."

Kathy Nordmeyer, who ran for a trustee seat in April, said that anybody who thinks that a conspiracy is brewing for village control doesn't have the facts straight.

CLC board discuss expansion

Lakeshore campus remains priority

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

The College of Lake County board of trustees recently approved its latest "wish list" for new facilities, and a proposal to build a Student Services/Lifelong Learning building at Waukegan's Lakeshore Campus was identified as a priority.

Each year the college submits an updated Resource Allocation Management Plan (RAMP) document to the Illinois Community College Board. Submission of this document is part of a process for obtaining state funding for buildings. Approval of projects can take more than a decade, according to a release from CLC.

A proposed student services building on the Grayslake campus has been included in the RAMP document since the 1990s.

Trustees stated a growing need for educational services in northeast Lake County, and the college last year requested and received approval to change the location of the building to the Lakeshore Campus.

"This building will continue to be our number one priority," Board Chairman William M. Griffin said.

The $42 million building would contain space for student services, adult education programs such as English as a Second Language and workforce preparation programs.

The college is seeking $32 million in state funding to cover the major portion of the cost, according to the release. The state covers three-fourths of the cost of approved capital projects.

"We look forward to this expansion for a Student Services/Lifelong Learning building here in Waukegan," CLC Trustee Patricia Jones said.

Throughout 2007, the college has been active in seeking legislative support for the Lakeshore expansion, according to the release.

Members of the board discussed the project with legislators at a dinner at the Lakeshore Campus in January, and the college hosted House Speaker Michael Madigan for a forum on higher education arranged by State Rep. Eddie Washington, D-Waukegan, at the Lakeshore Campus in April.

The college also has retained three lobbyists to assist in seeking state funding.

CLC Trustee Richard Anderson gave an update on the state funding picture and said that the entire Lake County legislative delegation supports the project.

The state has not funded a capital projects bill for community colleges for several years and, Anderson said, the college's efforts are focused on ensuring the Lakeshore project is included if a bill passes, according to the release.

In other business, the CLC board approved placing the college's proposed fiscal year 2008 budget on public display in the Business Services & Finance office in Room A101 on the Grayslake campus from July 24 to Aug. 28.

The board will consider the FY 2008 budget for approval following a public hearing at a meeting at 7 p.m. on Aug. 28, at the Grayslake campus.

Before her bariatric surgery at Vista Medical Center East, Mary Pirello weighed nearly 300 pounds. Today, with help from the physicians and staff, Mary has lost over 100 pounds. And she's doing things she could only dream about before her surgery. With more energy for her husband and four children, Mary's also busy running in 5k races, attending school at the University of Wisconsin Parkside and even planning on an archeological dig this summer in Belize, South America. While we're happy we helped Mary get her confidence back, we're even prouder to have helped her get her life back. ## Police found suspect barricaded in bathroom

• SCHNIDER

Thompson said that the woman's live-in boyfriend had dumped her at the hospital with a broken arm, bruised ankles, and numerous cuts and scrapes.

The sheriff's office also alleged that the woman had been raped by Schnider after he bound her with tape and held a power saw to her neck, Thompson said.

Law enforcement officials also said Schnider forced her to swallow several pills of an unknown drug.

Nurses told deputies that Schnider had told his girlfriend to tell doctors that she had been in a bar fight, Thompson said.

Authorities later discovered that the two had been drinking earlier.

With that information, Thompson said, the sheriff's office sent out a statewide alert to search for the Schnider.

About 20 minutes later, Thompson said, deputies found him at his brother's home in the 2500 block of Edgar Avenue in Antioch Township.

Schnider had taken his and the woman's four children, who range in age from 3 to 7, with him, Thompson said.

When authorities arrived the man barricaded himself and the kids in the house. After negotiations, a tactical response team broke into the home, Thompson said. The

Red flags

Men who batter often display signs of potential violence early on in a relationship. Many are extremely jealous, control and isolate their partners, are verbally abusive, and might have a family history of domestic violence.

For those in a violent relationship who want out, it is important to have an action plan. A packed bag should always be ready to go, and a safe place to stay should be planned out ahead of time. A trusted friend or neighbor should be given an extra set of keys, clothes and important documents in case the victims needs to leave quickly. And victims should never be afraid to call the police or other authorities.

man was found in the bathroom with two of the children, and he said he had planned to drown all four of them in the bathtub, Thompson said.

“Heinous domestic battery incident like this one are relatively few and far between.”

Christopher Thompson
Lake County Sheriff's Department spokesman

The man resisted arrest but was finally taken to the county jail, Thompson said. The next day, Schnider's bond was set at $10 million.

"Heinous domestic battery incidents like this one are relatively few and far between," Thompson said. "However, any instances of domestic battery cannot be tolerated."

WAUCONDA – Wauconda officials are hoping for the best for the Cook family.

Their son Joe was injured during his tour of duty in Iraq. Cook was on patrol in Iraq when his vehicle was blown apart by a bomb June 27.

"I ask that we as a community come together and support the Cook family in their time of need," Wauconda President Sal Saccomanno said.

Bob Cook, Joe's dad, said that the family was devastated by the news, but added the Army did a great job of treating their injured son. Joe is a graduate of Wauconda High School.

Sacomanno said an organization of resources was put in place with the American

Lake County joining regional partners to discuss water resources

Lake County is working with regional partners to address future water resources for a rapidly growing population. As the suburbs of Chicago continue to grow with new business and housing developments, the depletion of groundwater is a growing concern. Lake County will work with a Regional Water Supply Planning Group (RWSPG) organized by the Chicago Metropolitan Agency for Planning (CMAP).

Funding for the three-year regional effort is being provided by the Illinois Department of Natural Resources.

The Regional Water Supply Planning Group will focus on the area's deep bedrock aquifer and the Fox River Basin's shallow bedrock aquifer, which supply water to homes and businesses. In addition, the planning group will consider the allocation of Lake Michigan water on current and potential users. For more information, visit the Lake County Web site at www.co.lake.il.us/planning/support/projects/projects\_Water\_Supply.asp

Free Online Mapping Technology

Residents can now access a birds-eye view of their properties with aerial photography, by visiting www.co.lake.il.us/maps.

In addition, selected monument and benchmark data is now available for Professional Land Surveyors. Lake County's interactive Geographic Information System (GIS) applications comprise the most advanced online mapping system in the entire region. The system, searchable by Property Index Number (PIN) or address, offers mapped wetlands, floodplains and other environmental features, topography, taxing districts, political boundaries and property assessment information available in a convenient report format. Users can print these maps and property reports at no charge. Residents and businesses can reach the Department of Planning, Building and Development at (847) 377.2600.

Health Department re-activates West Nile Virus hotline

The Health Department has re-activated the West Nile virus hotline for county residents to report dead birds and areas of stagnant water, which are conducive for mosquito breeding, or to obtain more information on the signs and symptoms of West Nile encephalitis. The West Nile virus hotline number is (847) 377-8300.

If pandemic flu strikes, you can get your medications where you vote

Lake County's 164 polling place sites will be used to distribute vital medicine to

Additional courtroom in store for state's busiest circuit

Felony cases in Lake County increased 23 percent since 2000. In 2006, the existing four felony courtrooms handled 5,305 cases making Lake County criminal courtrooms the busiest in Illinois. The first new felony courtroom since 1998 opened this spring. The new courtroom will relieve overcrowding and speed up justice. Staffing the new courtroom requires hiring three additional assistant state's attorneys, two assistant public defenders and one new probation officer.

Monaville Road underpass

Monaville Road will be closed for the next few months. The Forest Preserve District's, Grant Woods is getting a facelift and a new underpass for ease and safety for the trails.

Business teams up with Habitat

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

North Shore Trust and Savings recently announced its community partnership with Habitat for Humanity of Lake County.

The local business has pledged volunteer and financial support for the Christian housing ministry which serves people dedicated to building decent, affordable housing for families in need, while empowering families to help themselves.

Habitat for Humanity builds partnerships with diverse members of the community and seeks to provide housing for all people a matter of conscience and action.

North Shore Trust and Savings recently sent onsite construction crews to the Carter Crossing subdivision, which is at 12th Street and Washington Park in Waukegan.

"This is just the beginning," said Dante Mosely, Marketing Director for North Shore Trust and Savings. "We are making a long-term commitment to Habitat for Humanity. We will be scheduling four more volunteer construction dates in the upcoming months."

The business also will work with Habitat for Humanity of Lake County at the organizations ReStore facility, which offers builders and the public the opportunity to donate or buy new and used building materials.

Sales from the ReStore help fund Habitat for Humanity Lake County's building program.

DAVID F. RUNYARD*Born: April 1, 1936Died: June 29, 2007*Died following a great day of fishing with his son and grandson*

WAUTOMA, WIS. – Mr. David F. Runyard, age 71 of rural Wautoma, Wis., died suddenly Friday evening, June 29, 2007 at Aspirus Wausau Hospital, following a day of great fishing with his son and grandson on Lake DuBay near Wausau, Wis.

He was born April 14, 1936 in Antioch, the son of Thomas and Harriet Chase Runyard. David married Nancy M. Bailitz on Sept. 12, 1959 in Antioch. Nancy survives. David was raised in Antioch, and was a 1954 graduate of Antioch High School. Following his graduation from Antioch High School, David entered the U. S. Navy and served his country in the South Pacific, from 1954 to 1958, during the Korean Conflict. He attained the rank of Petty Officer First Class. Upon his return from the service, he became employed as a Rural Letter Carrier by the U.S. Post Office in Antioch. David was employed at the Antioch Post Office for 32 years until his retirement in 1991. He and his wife, Nancy moved to their home in Marion in 1994. David loved his family. He was an avid hunter and fisherman. He loved to garden. He was a member of the Wautoma American Legion Post.

Survivors include his wife of almost 48 years, Nancy; three sons, Michael (Vicky) Runyard of Antioch, Robert (Susan) Runyard of Twin Lakes, Wis., and James (Rita) Runyard of Lindenhurst; five grandchildren, Jonathan, Kelsey, Collin, Matthew, and Thomas; two brothers, John (Margaret) Runyard and Daniel (Linda) Runyard, both of Antioch, and two sisters, Katherine (Richard) Rogers and Mary Jo (Michael) Zeien, both of Antioch. David is also survived by many nieces and nephews, other relatives, and good friends. He was preceded in death by his parents and a sister, Margaret Ann McKinney.

A Memorial Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated by Father Ronald Anglim on July 20, at 1 p.m., at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Antioch. Full Military Honors were provided by the Antioch American Legion Post following the Mass. A Memorial has been established. The Ruminski Funeral Home of Redgranite assisted the family with arrangements. Please sign the Guest Book at www.LakeCountyJournals.com/obits.

SUSANNA (SHORT) LILES*Born: June 21, 1914Died: July 9, 2007

BLOOMINGTON – Susanna C. (Short) Liles, age 93 of Bloomington and formerly of Round Lake, died Monday, July 9, 2007 at BroMenn Regional Medical Center in Normal. She was born June 21, 1914 in Case, Mich., to John and Teresa (nee Kapche) Bucher. In 1932 Susanna married Charles W. Liles who preceded her in death in 1966. Later, in 1983, Susanna married England Short who also preceded her in death on Aug. 25, 2001. She was an artist and enjoyed painting and working in her garden. She also enjoyed traveling and had visited many places around the world. Susanna loved to dance and polka, was very active in Girl Scouts, and was a Scout Leader for many years. A member of St. Patrick Church of Merna for many years, she loved to sing and was a member of the choir there. She was employed by Callahan & Co. in Mundelein as a Legal Proof Reader for nearly 30 years.

Survivors include her five children, Susanne Liles of Phoenix,

WILLIAM J. 'BILL' ARNESON

Born: Feb. 27, 1954
Died: July 8, 2007

A man of gentle, noble nature

This quote from Arnold Palmer hangs in a prominent place in Bill's office and pays tribute to a man who truly loved the game of golf. It reads:

"Golf is decisively simple and endlessly complicated. It satisfies the soul and frustrates the intelligence. It is at the same time rewarding and maddening. It is without a doubt the greatest game Mankind has ever invented."

William J. 'Bill' Arneson

On Sunday, July 8, 2007 a man of gentle and noble nature died unexpectedly, leaving behind a loving family, and many friends to mourn his brief but incredible life. William J. "Bill" Arneson, age 53 of Kenosha, Wis., began his life when he was born on Feb. 27, 1954 to James C. and Patricia M. (Cantwell) Arneson. Bill proudly graduated from St. Mark Elementary, and was a 1972 graduate of St. Joseph High School. He furthered his education at Loras College and U.W. Parkside. Following school, he worked in the family business, Arneson Foundry, until he wanted to achieve his own dreams. Then, on Jan. 17, 1981 in Las Vegas, Nev., Bill married his love, Pattie Dolnik. They were blessed with two incredibly loving daughters, Erin & Courtney. For over 15 years Bill and Pattie owned and operated Bill's Grayslake Piggly Wiggly. Despite the fact that Bill was such a passionate man, there was nothing ordinary about the way he lived his life. Yes, he performed common tasks in life, but it was the intensity and joy that was derived from what he did. From golfing to running a business; and from raising two children with his wife, to bowling and hunting - Bill had an energy that surrounded his life experiences that was contagious. Bill was a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church; the KRA (Kenosha Recognition Association); and the 35 Club. He was a member of the Kenosha Country Club and the Grayslake Chamber of Commerce. But to know Bill was to completely understand that he was most enthusiastic about the game of golf. Not only did he play in numerous charity golf events in Lake and Kenosha Counties, but he also set some very impressive records. He scored his one and only hole-in-one in 2004 at Rolling Meadows Country Club, and currently holds the course record of 63 at Maplecrest Country Club. Bill was the 1990 Kenosha Country Club Championship Flight Champion; and he also won the 2004 Kenosha County Senior Open, and he served on its committee. He has won the County Open several times, and he, his father Jim, and his daughter Erin currently hold the Kenosha County record for three-generations of County Open Champions.

He will be remembered by those who loved him most as "The Best Weenie Roaster," and "The Master Griller." Left to reminisce about their many family trips to Door County and Naples, Fla., and to grieve their immense loss are Bill's wife Pattie; their two daughters: Erin (Matthew Ginn) Arneson of Zion, and Courtney Arneson of Waukegan; his parents, James and Patricia Arneson of Kenosha; his brother, Robert J. Arneson of Racine; and a sister, Betsy (Jim) Schlieseder of Cedarburg, Wis. Bill was preceded in death by his grandparents, Albert and Clara Arneson, and Jack and Claire Cantwell; his uncle John Arneson; and his father and mother-in-law, Rudy and Alice Dolnik.

Funeral Services were held on Thursday, July 12, at 9:45 a.m., from the Piasecki-Althaus Funeral Home, 3720 39th Ave., Kenosha, Wis. 53144 Online Condolences at www.piasecki-althaus.com A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated at 10:30 a.m., at St. Peter's Catholic Church, 2224 - 30th Ave. Interment will follow in Sunset Ridge Memorial Park. A visitation for Bill was on Wednesday, July 11 from 5 to 8 p.m. at the funeral home.

Philanthropy center joins national network

Nonprofit organizations and other grantseekers in the Chicago area looking for funding sources now have access to a valuable new collection of resources at the Lake County Philanthropy Center, which has become a Cooperating Collection of the Foundation Center of New York. The Lake County Philanthropy Center is a partnership between the Donors Forum and the College of Lake County.

Cooperating Collections provide under-resourced and underserved populations in need of vital information and training with tools they can use to become successful grantseekers. At locations throughout the country, Cooperating Collections offer free access to detailed information on grantmakers and how to apply for grants. Cooperating Collections hold training sessions on how to effectively use their resources to identify potential funders, and provide other funding-related technical assistance in their communities.

The Lake County Philanthropy Center opened in January 2006. Sponsored jointly by the Donors Forum and the College of Lake County, the center offers a variety of resources and workshops for nonprofits located in Lake County and the far northwest suburbs. ## Typical Bush in Libby deal President Bush's decision to commute the sentence of I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby should come as no surprise.

Throughout his presidency, Bush has been uncomfortable with the legislative and judicial branches of government.

The Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act was inconvenient, what with its requirements for warrants. So, the administration began a warrantless wiretapping program.

Other acts of Congress also have been troublesome and have provoked signing statements from the president that, in essence, state that although a bill has become a law, it does not apply to Bush and the executive branch if it conflicts with his interpretation of the Constitution.

As of April 2006, Bush had used signing statements for 750 laws enacted by Congress, according to the Boston Globe.

So, when a jury found Libby guilty of four felonies and a judge sentenced him to serve 30 months in prison, it was not hard to predict that Bush would decide that our judicial system had made a mistake. To Bush's credit, he did not grant a full pardon. Libby still has the felony convictions and still must pay a fine of $250,000.

But Bush has spared Libby the indignity of having to serve time in prison - like a convicted felon.

Bush does have some facts on his side for the decision. Libby was convicted of perjury and other charges stemming from the investigation into the leak of a CIA agent's identity.

The investigation found that the leak, which originated with state department official Richard Armitage, was not criminal.

So, there was no underlying crime and Libby was not the leaker. But it was Libby who was being sent to prison.

Still, Libby did perjure himself and special prosecutor Patrick Fitzgerald thought that Libby's actions were serious enough to warrant criminal charges. A jury heard the case and found Libby guilty. A judge then issued a sentence.

Essentially, Bush thought that what was happening to Libby was unfair, so he took action.

As usual, Bush knows best.

Kirk, Lipinski: Stop dumping in our lake

Joined by local and national environmental leaders, U.S. Reps. Mark Kirk, R-Highland Park, and Dan Lipinski, D-Western Springs, recently announced bipartisan legislation that would ban sewage dumping in the Great Lakes.

The Great Lakes Water Protection Act would increase penalties for coastal cities that dump sewage into lake systems.

"Each year, more than 24 billion gallons of sewage are dumped into the crown jewel of the Midwest - the Great Lakes," Kirk said. "Detroit is the primary culprit, with more than 13 billion gallons dumped annually. We need to bring coastal cities in line with Chicago's water treatment reforms to ensure that we stop poisoning our water supply. By increasing penalties for dumping and creating a Great Lakes Clean-Up Fund, we can ensure the environmental health of our water resources for future generations."

Current penalties for dumping sewage are capped at $25,000 for each violation a day, and penalty funds return to the U.S. Treasury. The Great Lakes Water Protection Act would increase those penalties to up to $100,000 for each violation a day after 2027.

The bill also would create a Great Lakes Clean-Up Fund within the Clean Water State Revolving Fund (SRF). Penalties collected would go into this fund and be reallocated to the states surrounding the Great Lakes.

These funds will be spent on wastewater treatment options, with a special focus on habitat protection and wetland restoration. The bill also requires greater transparency for volume and occurrences of sewage dumping by states surrounding the Great Lakes.

More than 40 million people rely on the Great Lakes for their drinking water. Sewage dumping is a contributing factor to elevated levels of E. coli bacteria, the primary reason for beach closures in the summer. There are more than 1,400 freshwater beaches along 5,500 miles of Great Lakes' shoreline in eight states. Of the 67 beaches in Illinois, 54 (81 percent), had at least one safety warning during the 2006 beach season due to unhealthy bacteria levels.

In the 10th Congressional District, 118 reports of contamination occurred last year that exceeded health standards, which affected 62 percent of beaches along the north suburban shore.

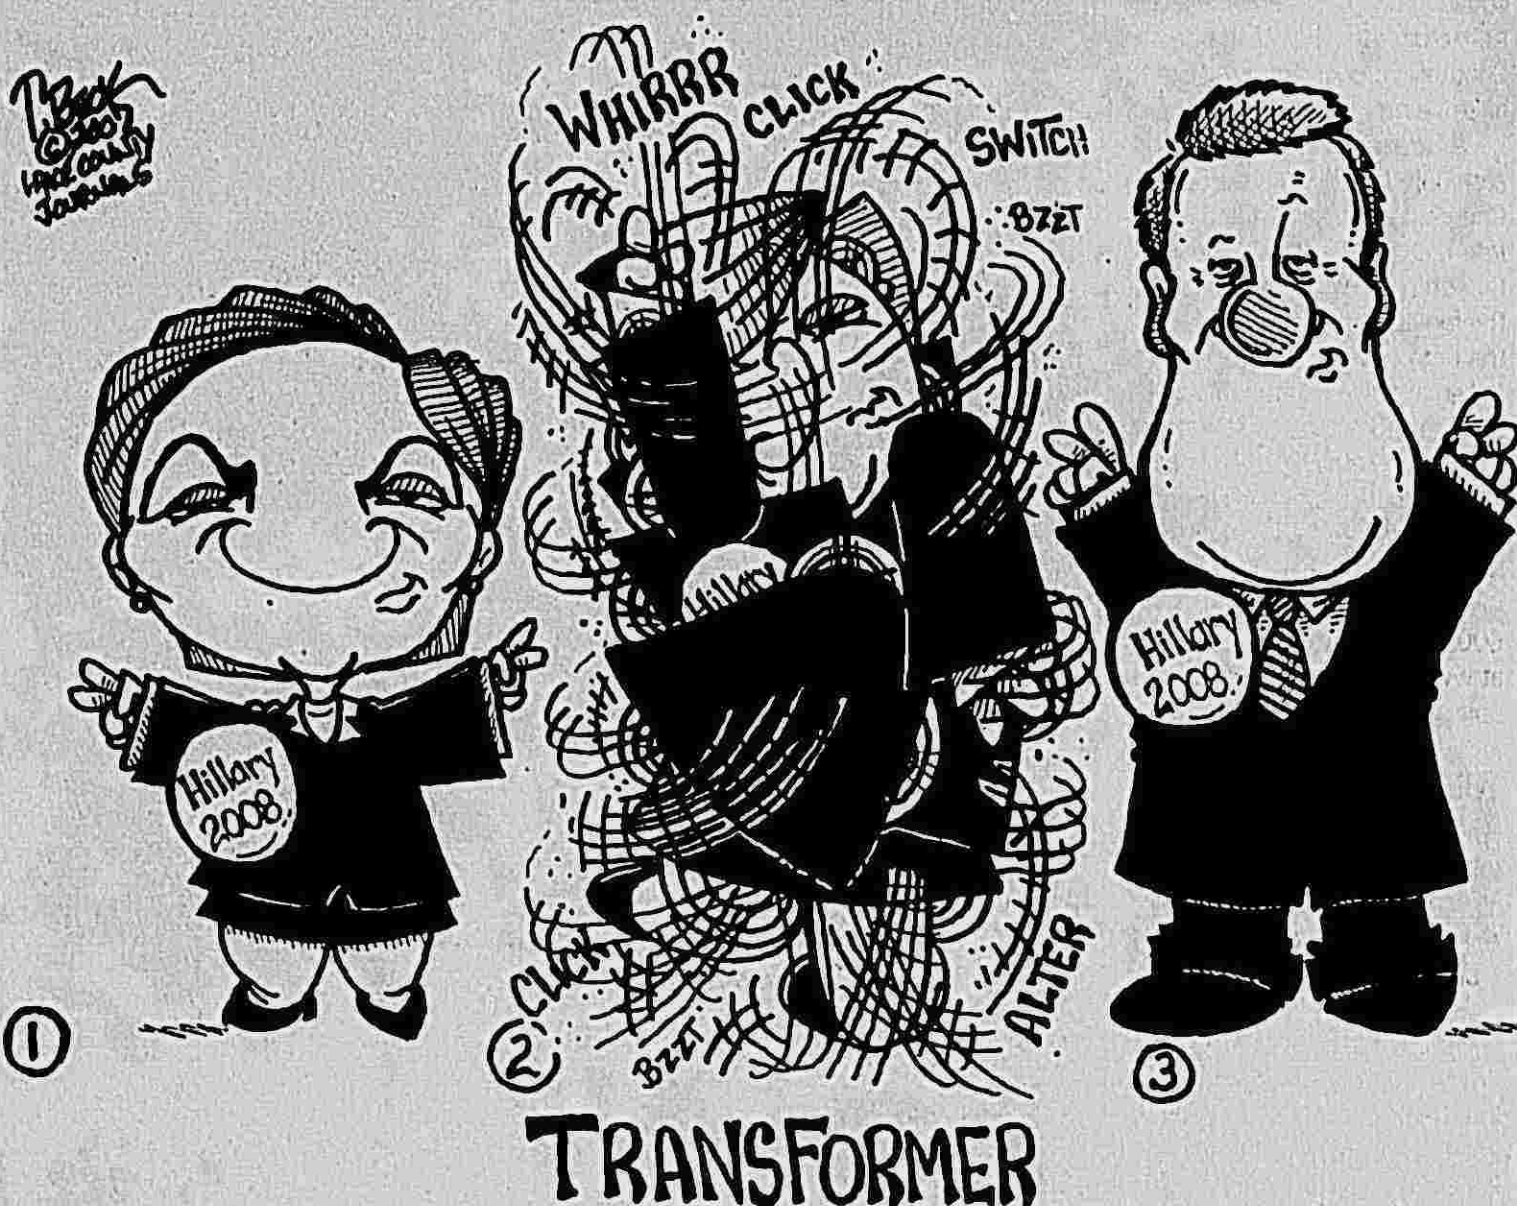

Closing a Lake Michigan beach because of bacteria contamination has an economic cost from $7,935 to $37,030 a day.

The introduction of the legislation comes during National Clean Beaches Week (June 29 to July 5), which was created to educate the public about the importance of sustainable beaches throughout the country.

Sorry I can't make it
To the Editor.

My fellow Antioch Village Board members, I apologize that I could not attend the July 2nd Village Board meeting.

I was attending a memorial showing of my mother's work at the Charleston SC Library. It happens to open July 2 and our whole family went to represent her and let the world know how proud we are of her photography and life.

In 1949 Wilfred Peterson wrote the book "The Art of Getting Along." He writes a section called, "Wanted Calm Men."

This section contains the following, "The calm man lets time solve some of his problems. He takes the long look; he does not try to rebuild his business or the world overnight".

Benjamin Franklin developed the following saying to help guide him in times of strife; "Sleepless tact, immovable calmness and a patience that no folly, no provocation, no blunders can shake."

This board is locked in a tremendous battle for control of the village.

We have spent two months jockeying for position.

In the midst of all this, we are generating bad headlines for the village, losing employees, missing opportunities for the betterment of Antioch.

The voters elected us to operate the village in a sound and open manner with fair treatment for all.

Division and strife are the main components of our meetings.

All of us can probably share blame.

A village resident told me he saw no solution to our division and strife. He may be correct, but we have to find a middle road.

The things we disagree on are petty, yet define the promises we made to our supporters as we ran for office.

Now we are elected officials and we must put aside our petty differences and work on the common ground items that may lead to discovering how to resolve the issues that divide us and currently paralyze the village.

Let us put aside for one year plans to redo how the village operates, how the mayor appoints her committees, how and who performs duties as the village attorney.

Let us chose not to fight for one year and work on the common ground items.

Let us work on things that keep the village operating.

Let us work on the positive things that occur in Antioch.

During this year we can let our two new trustees come up to speed in a positive learning environment.

Once a full understanding of village operations are achieved changes can be identified in a constructive manner, which benefit the taxpayers voters of this great community.

At the end of this brave new year, I call for a date certain to hold a daylong conference to identify what works and what does not work.

Maybe, just maybe, by then we will have all learned how to work together because common ground brought us together.

If changes are needed, I will support those changes that are legal and still felt necessary by all of my fellow board members.

No need to overhaul Illinois Constitution

In the middle of last month, when the Illinois House was busy doing nothing, it adopted a resolution calling on citizens to overhaul the state's constitution. It was meaningless because it was non-binding.

Adopted by a 47-46 vote, the resolution referred to the many issues the Legislature failed to address this year such as education funding, and tax and ethics reform.

In effect, those voting for the resolution said they were not to blame for failing to act on the pressing issues. It's the constitution's fault.

What a cop-out. Vote for a new constitution, press the magic wand, and presto, we're in la-la-land and all of our problems are answered. Not so fast.

Constitutions are rightly documents of general principles, not of legislative mandates, and to construct a state charter as a legislative vehicle would be a colossal blunder.

As a matter of fact, the voters of Illinois will vote in the 2008 election on whether there should be another constitutional convention to totally re-write the constitution. When the 1970 charter was ratified by the people, it included a provision that every 20 years, the citizens shall vote on whether they shall call a convention. If the voters support such a call, thereafter they would vote to elect delegates to the convention and the members would later meet to write a new constitution.

In 1988, when the Illinois voters were first asked in an election to vote on whether there should be a call of a convention, they handily rejected it. By an almost 2 million vote margin, the voters expressed their support to keep the 1970 document intact.

In some ways, 40 years seems a long time. But, in the life of constitutions, it is a relatively short time.

Constitutions, broadly written, are written and meant to serve the public for a long time. Also, constitutions can be amended without pursuing a wholesale alteration.

When that issue comes up for debate next year, voters beware.

There will be special interest groups eager to find easier ways to spend taxpayers' money, and changing the constitution might satisfy their selfish goals.

Also, every imaginable social agenda would be tested and, in the end, we would be left with divisiveness and bitterness, and nobody wins.

A well-written constitution represents the will of the people, as such, it should be a restraint on reckless legislative power. That is why it is unwise to willy-nilly overhaul a constitution.

Yes, the Legislature has failed in many ways to fulfill its responsibilities. But that is no reason to alter the constitution as the living document of the people.

There will be much time next year to hear the pros and cons of whether the existing constitution should be changed. Just as tons of money is spent by candidates, tons of money will be spent to convince you that your life would be better with a new constitution.

Don't buy it.

Lucky number seven

Couples get married at Six Flags Great America in Gurnee on 7/7/07

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

The number seven has many different forms of significance: The sevens people hope to see on slot machines.

The seven days the Bible says it took to create the Earth.

The seven wonders of the world. With all the significance regarding the number seven, it is no wonder that when July 7, 2007 came around, it was a popular day for couples to walk down the aisle and say "I do."

According to a New York Times article, 7/7/07 was a date many couples planned to get married. So Six Flags Great America in Gurnee decided to put their own twist on the day.

At 7 a.m., seven couples were either married or renewed their vows at the amusement park.

"Obviously 7/7/07 only comes around every century, so we thought it would be a great [and] fun thing to do," said Hank Salemi, park president for Six Flags.

Salemi said the park had received more than 50 applicants who competed in a contest called "Thrilled Ever After: A Six Flags Wedding."

For the festivities, the seven brides rode a trolley into Hometown Square, where they were greeted by Bugs and Lola Bunny.

What guests might not have noticed was that the trolley that brought the brides was not the one planned for the ceremony. The original one, which was decorated for the occasion, broke down, and the brides had to be ushered onto another.

Sandra Goff, one of the brides, said she wasn't worried about the mishap.

"[I thought], 'If this is the worst thing that happens all day, we're in good shape,'" she said. "But then the microphone didn't work when we

Meet the lucky seven

Holly Fuller and Robert Lee: Dating 12 years; five kids

Sandra Goff and Tom Porter: Engaged; second marriage for both; four kids total (two each)

Heather Quinn and Josh West: Dating four years; three kids

Lisa and Joseph Patterson: Married 10 years; divorced; engaged again; two kids

Kamryn and Jeremy Schill: Renewing their vows; married 12 years; two kids

Rosa Claudio and Ovidio Galvan: Renewing their vows; married 17 years

Kim and Josh McKenney: Renewing their vows; married two years; two kids started, so then I was starting to worry."

Among the couples were Kamryn and Jeremy Schill, of Great Lakes. The Schills have been married for 12 years and were among the three couples renewing their vows.

"Actually, it was just on a whim," Kamryn said about entering the contest.

Kamryn, who was one of the more casual brides in a white Superman cap, said she was online checking the park's hours when she saw the section about the contest. She and Jeremy decided to submit their story, and they became one of the lucky seven couples who were chosen.

"We had a whole lot of people come who came to our original wedding," Kamryn said. "Jeremy's best man from our original wedding is the best man this time, and my cousin is my maid of honor, so we had a lot of repeat people."

Another couple who renewed their vows were Rosa Claudio and Ovidio Galvan, of Chicago. The couple has been married for 17 years.

"Originally in 1990, [July 7] was the date that we had wanted to get the marriage license. We wanted to get married on that date," Claudio said. "But we ended up getting married on a different date. We ended up going to City Hall in jeans and getting married."

Unlike at her original wedding, Claudio wore a sleeveless black-and-white dress at the Six Flags wedding to compliment Galvan's black-and-white pin stripe suit.

But new marriages and renewals were not the only couples at the event.

Joseph and Lisa Patterson, of Joliet, were there to give their love a second chance. The couple were married for 10 years and divorced last year. Now, a year later, they decided to get married again. But this time they opted for a big, lucky day.

"I was on the Web site checking hours and found [the contest] interesting, so I did it while he was sleeping," Lisa said.

Joe said his response when she told him about the contest was, "she's crazy."

But he added that he was really glad they did it.

After the ceremony, the couples and their guests gathered at Aunt Martha's Boarding House for a breakfast buffet and a five-layer cake from Lovin' Oven.

Also at the breakfast, Six Flags awarded one couple a one-week honeymoon vacation at one of 20 Bluegreen resorts.

The lucky winners were Kim and Josh McKenney, of Chatsworth. The couple have been married for two years.

Kim expressed her excitement about winning, saying their first honeymoon was going to Six Flags.

"I was very surprised, and I was very glad," she said.

While the couples stood in line for food and mingled with guests, the Schills handed out gifts.

"You can't go to a wedding empty handed," Kamryn said.

Rockin' Summerfest

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

Chevelle's music can best be described as a form of hard rock so concrete that it falls just short of heavy metal. The band's onstage presence rivals the biggest and best rock bands, but with a three-person lineup, Chevelle retains a more personal vibe with audiences.

But as thousands of fans at Milwaukee Summerfest screamed for the rock band, little did they know that at the core of Chevelle's story there isn't just music, but a band of brothers.

Rockers by trade, Lake County boys at heart

At the heart of Chevelle stands a pair of brothers, both home-schooled and relatively introverted. But thanks to their powerful riffs and booming vocals, Chevelle carries a musical presence very different from their off-stage demeanor.

Lead singer and guitarist Pete Loeffler and his brother, drummer Sam Loeffler, actually grew up in Grayslake. Even the band's bass player, Dean Bernardini, is a Lake County native and part of the family, as he's the Loeffler brothers' brother-in-law.

"Having a band that's so close helps out the creative process," Sam said. "I've been playing with my brother Pete ever since I started, and we're so in tune with each other because of that. I think it definitely helps our music."

Chevelle has a way of keeping it in the family as the band got its start in 1994 with Pete and Sam along with bassist Matt Scott. Two years later, another Loeffler brother joined the band when Joe Loeffler replaced Scott on bass until 2005. Since then, the band has played in its current iteration.

Even though they've released four studio albums, including platinum album "Wonder What's Next," Sam said, he is still very grounded in his roots and readily talks about his hometown.

"Even though I don't live there, I still keep up with my Grayslake roots," Sam said. "It's such a great town and now, it's almost like it's a smaller town than when I grew up there. But, the traffic is crazy in Lake County these days."

Annie Christie - achristie@nwnewsgroup.com

Chevelle lead guitarist Pete Loeffler rocks out on his guitar during the band's concert at Milwaukee Summerfest last week. Loeffler, and fellow Chevelle members Sam Loeffler and Dean Bernardini are from Lake County.

A sound all their own

According to Chevelle fans at the concert, the band's unique sound is what draws them to Chevelle's concerts, or rather, the band's unique hybrid of sounds.

"They've got an original sound; it's not exactly mainstream," concert attendee Steven Knutson said. "It's not poppy, it's not just rock, it's not metal ... it doesn't fit into a genre ... it's something all its own."

But, regardless of the genre, Summerfest fans said they enjoyed Chevelle's performance.

"I've been listening to Chevelle for about five years, and I've really been looking forward to this concert," Chevelle fan Kerri Hoffman said. "Their sound is kind of hard, but [Pete's] got a good voice. It's always hard to find a really good hard rock band that can actually sing, and that's why I love Chevelle's music."

A reflective look

By TOM WITOM
thomaswitom@yahoo.com

Throughout the ages, poets and playwrights have gravitated toward love, in its many guises, for subject matter.

As Chicago's Goodman Theatre proves with its current production, "Mirror of the Invisible World," love remains a fertile field for exploration.

This enchanting work, adapted and directed by Mary Zimmerman (among whose earlier inspired productions have included "The Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci," "Argonautika," "Metamorphoses" and "The Odyssey"), was first presented a decade ago at Goodman's tiny studio theater on Columbus Drive before the company moved to its present location on Dearborn Street.

It's drawn from a little-known 12th century Persian epic, "The Haft Paykar" (roughly translated as "Seven Beauties," "Seven Portraits" or "Seven Princesses") from the words and ideas of the poet Nizami of Ganja.

"Mirror" recounts how Prince Bahram (Faran Tahir) is dispatched as a young prince to the court of an Arab king, where he learns the arts of royalty. A palace is built for him with seven separate towers, each a different color. One day, he discovers his destiny in the form of a room bearing portraits of dazzling princesses from seven lands.

For Bahram, who has become a king, it was love at first sight. He takes as his bride each princess - from India (Anjali Bhimani), Greece (Atley S. Loughridge), Africa (Charlette Speigner), Persia (Nicole Shalhoub), China (Lisa Tejero), Turkey (Stacey Yen) and Russia (Sofia Jean Gomez).

Every night for a week, Bahram visits a different wife, from whom he hears a series of stories with the underlying purpose of teaching him about compassion, patience, honesty, goodness and love.

Zimmerman has enhanced the production from its previous incarnation. Under sound designer and composer Michael Bodeen's direction, Eve Monzingo, Ronnie Malley and Gary Kalar appear onstage making musical magic with various instruments, including tambourines, dulcimer, oud (a Middle Eastern lute), finger cymbals and percussive drums, among others, to create the homeland of each princess.

Hi-Ho Cherry-O

By JEAN KRESSY
editorial@relishmag.com

Fresh Cherry Tart
(Serves 8)

Ingredients

Pastry:

1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup cold butter, cut into small pieces
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
Cherry Filling:
4 cups pitted cherries (about 1 1/2 pounds)
23 cup granulated sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon confectioners' sugar

Directions

To prepare the pastry, combine flour, sugar and salt in a processor; pulse to combine. Add butter and orange rind; pulse until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add 1 to 2 teaspoons of ice water; pulse until dough clumps together. Shape into a 4-inch disc; wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate about 30 minutes.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees Fahrenheit.

Roll pastry into a 15-inch circle. Place in a 10-inch tart pan with removable bottom.

To prepare the filling, combine cherries, granulated sugar and cornstarch. Spoon into pastry.

Bake 40 minutes. Cool on wire rack.

Did You Know?

Choosing the right wine to go with your meal is not always an easy choice. Many people are uncertain as to what wine best accompanies a particular dish. According to www.WineAnswers.com, an online resource designed to help those facing the wine/meal dilemma, certain wines go particularly well with specific entrees. For instance, for a traditional meal of steak or prime rib, Wine Answers recommends a merlot, especially if the meal is not fancifully prepared. For those who prefer white wine to red, chardonnay is recommended. For those who prefer delicate fish such as flounder or sole over steak or prime rib, try a sauvignon blanc for some added flavor, or some pinot grigio to give your fish a little more kick.

Plan your event at Round Lake Beach Cultural & Civic Center

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER
Lesonlife@sbcglobal.net

The Village of Round Lake Beach's new Cultural & Civic Center is living up to its name as the place for quality entertainment, and the premier place to hold an event.

The Center is located at 2007 Civic Center Way in Round Lake Beach, between the post office and the Metra station off of Hook Drive.

The Center has indoor and outdoor spaces designed to handle a wide variety of events. The 31,000 square foot facility includes a banquet hall and theater that can accommodate up to 500 people, as well as an outdoor amphitheater with seating for 3,000. Meeting or event rooms of every size make this the perfect setting for weddings, showers, reunions, corporate events, and more.

The Round Lake Area Chamber of Commerce, Pear Tree Catering, and Improv Playhouse are also on site to help plan that special event or business meeting.

Pear Tree Catering and Improv Playhouse are exclusive affiliates dedicated to making sure the food and entertainment are just as memorable as the occasion. However, outside providers can be brought in if coordinated with these affiliates.

Facility Manager Monica Marr said she encourages people to come see this state-of-the-art facility by contacting her to arrange a tour. She can be reached at (847) 201-9032. "It's been exciting how quickly we're starting to book up," she added.

The Cultural & Civic Center is also fast becoming the venue for area arts and entertainment.

Improv Playhouse is currently holding a summer acting camp for children and teens. And their production of "Twelfth Night" launches the Center's first annual "Shakespeare at the Center" to be held the first two weekends in August. "Shakespeare at the Center" will be performed on the outdoor stage, and is free to the public. Shows start at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 5 p.m. on Sunday.

In addition, the Center is now hosting a series of free summer outdoor concerts for young and old alike. Reserve Friday mornings for the "Children's Concert Series" held on the outdoor stage or the lakefront park. Or enjoy the "Sunset Concert Series" on the outdoor stage Sundays from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Daniel Radcliffe (forefront) returns as Harry Potter in "Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix."

Under a spell

"Harry Potter"

Summing up the mood of his fifth film, Harry Potter plaintively declares, "I just feel so angry all the time."

Harry (again played by Daniel Radcliffe) blames his irritability on evil Lord Voldemort's black magic, but that's only a minor cause.

Harry's friends Hermione Granger (Emma Watson) and Ron Weasley (Rupert Grint) worry that his moodiness might be linked to his recurring dream of a door at the end of a dark corridor, but that also is a minor cause. The simple, overriding reason our young hero is mad through most of "Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix" is that he just turned 15. The boy wizard is growing up, and adolescent angst hits him hard.

Most temperamental teenagers instinctively feel contempt toward adults, but authority figures suddenly hand Harry tons of reasons to mistrust them.

The previous installment, "Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire," ended with Voldemort (Ralph Fiennes) making his long-feared return to human form. Rather than heed the warnings of Hogwarts headmaster Albus Dumbledore (Michael Gambon), the Ministry of Magic takes the official position that Harry was mistaken about witnessing Voldemort's rebirth and that law-abiding wizards and witches have nothing to fear.

The ministry installs a new teacher at Hogwarts, Dolores Umbridge (Imelda Staunton), to spy on Dumbledore and maintain the government line that Harry is deluded.

This bureaucratic meddling is bad enough, but the worst blow to Harry's sinking esteem is that, without explanation, Dumbledore refuses to speak to him and will not even look at him.

Dumbledore easily could relieve Harry's stress by sending a note of explanation and apology, but then the story would unfold with less suspense. Thus screenwriter Michael Goldenberg gets stuck with one of novelist J.K. Rowling's most ludicrous plot contrivances.

Nevertheless, by condensing and rearranging the events of Rowling's most unfocused novel, Goldenberg improves upon his source. He tightens flabby scenes and corrects a few of Rowling's flaws of logic.

Some flaws Goldenberg cannot mend at least receive a bandage. In the film, Harry angrily shouts, "Look at me!" to Dumbledore, which is more credible than the way he sulks throughout the book.

Meanwhile, the cast continues to balloon. Besides such regulars as Dumbledore, Hagrid (Robbie Coltrane) and Snape (Alan Rickman), three characters from earlier films return: Sirius Black (Gary Oldman), Remus Lupin (David Thewlis) and Mad-Eye Moody (Brendan Gleeson).

And three new characters, all female, are introduced: Umbridge, a new teacher at Hogwarts; Tonks (Natalia Tena); and Luna Lovegood (Evanna Lynch). Tonks is a utility player. She belongs to the Order of the Phoenix, an underground resistance group led by Dumbledore.

The other two newcomers live up to the film. Luna is a spooky but sweet Hogwarts student with wide eyes and pale blond hair. She brings light to the increasingly gloomy atmosphere.

Umbridge likes to project sweetness and light - she wears pink sweaters and decorates her office in a kitten motif - but she is the most memorable villain yet to appear in Harry Potter's world.

Voldemort is supposed to be the saga's nemesis, but he has done nothing so chilling as the way Umbridge turns detention into torture by forcing Harry to write, "I must not tell lies," using a magic pen that substitutes his blood for ink.

Director David Yates, a Potter newcomer, is particularly blessed that Radcliffe continues to grow as an actor.

So are we, because few spectacles are as unbearable as an unskilled young actor playing an angry teenager. Reducing an 870-page book into 138 minutes of thrilling action certainly requires magic.

Christian Bale stars as Dieter Dengler, an American pilot who escaped from a Laotian prison camp, in "Rescue Dawn."

'Rescue Dawn' brings human emotion to light

By JEFFREY WESTHOFF
sidetracks@nwnewsgroup.com

With its low-budget grunge and determined realism, "Rescue Dawn" could have been pulled from a time capsule buried 35 years ago.

Although this story of a downed American pilot takes place during the Vietnam War, this is not a political picture. Much of it is an old-fashioned jungle survival story that calls upon the man vs. nature theme that has always fascinated filmmaker Werner Herzog.

Christian Bale, the screen's latest and best Batman, plays the hero, Dieter Dengler. We know immediately Herzog's film is based on a true story because no one would invent a movie with an American military hero named Dieter.

The German-born Dengler was the subject of an earlier Herzog film, the documentary "Little Dieter Needs to Fly." Dengler's reminiscences in the documentary about his escape from a Laotian prison camp and subsequent jungle adventure convinced Herzog to dramatize this episode from Dengler's life.

Although the film's low budget probably was an economic necessity, it serves the picture well. Herzog presents "Rescue Dawn" as the type of hard and fast, glitz-free action movie that flourished during the early 1970s.

The special effects seen during the brief flying sequences definitely are pre-"Star Wars." Dengler arrives in Vietnam in 1965, just as America's military decides to escalate the war.

Flying a prop plane from World War II, Dengler is among the first pilots to illegally fly over Laos on the way to Vietnam. This makes his position especially dangerous when he crashes into a Laotian rice paddy.

After he is captured and randomly abused and tortured by successive groups of guerillas, Dengler arrives at the remote prison camp that is home to the film's second act. He meets two American pilots, Duane (Steve Zahn) and Gene (Jeremy Davies), who were shot down two years earlier, as well as several South Vietnamese fliers linked to the CIA-backed Air America.

We often hear stories of actors who gain or lose weight for a part, but none of those stories will prepare you for the sight of an emaciated Davies.

Always an intense actor, he apparently starved himself down to a skeleton for the role. Most of Herzog's films deal with unhealthy obsession. But Dengler survives because he is obsessed with survival. His plans to escape the prison keep him sane and restores sanity to his fellow captives.

The moment the prisoners overcome the guards, each one but Dengler suffers a mental breakdown. Their purpose fulfilled, they no longer know what to do and wander into the jungle never to be seen again.

Although Duane is added, too, Dengler takes him along, determined to protect his friend. Like Roman Polanski's "The Pianist," "Rescue Dawn" is a wartime survival story told entirely from the protagonist's point of view.

Herzog relies too much on the jungle adventure formula. After Dengler and Duane narrowly escape going over a waterfall (cliché No. 1), they open their soaked shirts to reveal chests covered by leeches (cliché No. 2).

Despite such commonplace scenes, Dengler's story is haunting and his spirit remarkable.

&gt;&gt; Horoscope

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22

Cancer, don't be surprised if you find your workload mounting this week.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23

A loved one needs your advice about a relationship, Leo. Be honest.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

You can't do it all yourself, Virgo. Now's the time to ask a friend for help.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Libra, don't be overly critical of yourself after a simple mistake. No one else thinks worse of you, so there's no point dwelling on the situation.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Although you're sure to get a lot done before Thursday, it'll be a frustrating week, Scorpio.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Your sense of humor draws plenty of attention, Sagittarius, and it helps you form a close friendship with an unlikely stranger.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Be determined this week, Capricorn. Friends and colleagues will try to distract you from the task at hand. Stay focused, and motivate yourself to get your work done.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

That special someone wants to take your relationship to a new level. Are you ready, Aquarius?

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20

You have to be aggressive early in the week, Pisces. There's a lot to get done.

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20

Don't be too generous with your time this week, Aries. You have plenty of your own needs to attend to.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21

Capricorn plays a role in a sticky argument at work earlier in the week, Taurus.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21

This might be a good time to finish a project you've been putting off, Gemini.

Kids meals

Taking young children out to eat can be like eating a hot fudge sundae. You kind of have to get through it quickly before a meltdown occurs.

As more people eat out these days, so it goes that more children are tagging along.

Yet, despite everyone's efforts, eating out with kids isn't always a cakewalk.

Bullpen reason for Sox woes

By the time you read this, the Major League Baseball season will have resumed.

My beloved fourth-place Chicago White Sox will be in Baltimore, ready to embark on an extended road trip during which they will play four games against the Orioles, followed by three against the red-hot Cleveland Indians and then a four-game set against the first-place Red Sox.

I am not looking forward to these 11 games, and I'm particularly dreading what might happen against Cleveland and Boston.

As I write this, the Sox are enjoying a much-needed break. One that is required for both their own, and their fans', sanity. The All Star Game was played in San Francisco this past Tuesday, and only one representative from the South Side - closer Bobby Jenks - was on hand for those festivities.

Was it really just a year and a half ago that the Sox won the World Series? Many of the players from that squad still call U.S. Cellular Field home.

What happened? When meltdowns like this occur, it is usually for several reasons.

But for my money, the main culprit for the team's 39-47 record is, without question, a horribly overmatched bullpen.

Take a look at some of the relief pitchers who were supposed to represent a team strength.

Mike MacDougal has been the most painful to watch. He was supposed to anchor the pen and bridge the gap between the starters and Jenks. Instead, he was afraid to put the ball over the plate for about two months, and compiled a first-half résumé consisting of a 6.23 ERA, a gut-wrenching 1-1 walk-to-strikeout ratio, and one visit to AAA Charlotte to get his mind right.

Other relievers who have killed the Sox so far include Nick Masset (7.34 ERA), David Aardsma (6.40) and Andrew Sisco (8.36).

As a true Chicago baseball fan who is used to having his hopes demolished (2005 being the only real exception), I have given up on this team. Most Sox fans have. We're a realistic group.

But, as a Chicago baseball fan, I'm also a masochist. And I'll be there for their return to the South Side, when they have five games against the AL Central-leading Detroit Tigers.

At the very least, maybe the Sox can take one of the top teams in the division out of the pennant race. If we're miserable, the least our team can do is bring a rival fan base down with us.

Going extreme

Local BMX track provides outlet for county bikers

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

WAUKEGAN - During the past decade, "extreme sports" have taken a front seat among other more traditional pastimes for American kids.

You can credit events like the annual X-Games, which has provided national television exposure and opened the eyes of many kids in suburban and rural areas to sports that were once considered strictly urban.

It is through televised competitions such as these that kids can see someone like BMX great Mat Hoffman defy gravity on a vert ramp and capture the imaginations of kids who hope to accomplish similarly awe-inspiring feats.

Many of those kids can be found at Waukegan BMX, an organized racing track that is sanctioned through the National Bicycle League.

The NBL is the only internationally recognized sanctioned body for BMX in North America, according to the Waukegan group's Web site, www.waukeganbmx.com.

The track is at the Waukegan Park District's Henry Pfau Callahan Park, 2785 Yorkhouse Road in Waukegan.

Kids and young adults, both seasoned BMXers and beginners, have the opportunity to practice at the track several times a month. Those who are registered with NBL are able to participate in monthly races at the track as well.

The next event, the Bob Wamick Scholarship Race, is scheduled for July 22. Registration is from 10:30 a.m. to noon and races begin at 1 p.m.

Practices take place every Thursday, generally from 5 p.m. until dusk, throughout the summer.

For more information, such as a full calendar of summer events, visit www.waukeganbmx.com.

>> American Legion Baseball: Genoa City 8, Grayslake 2

Grayslake talent not enough in recent loss

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

GRAYSLAKE - Grayslake American Legion Post 459 advanced to the championship round of the State Line Slug-out Tournament, but settled for second place, losing to talented and state-ranked Genoa City, 8-2.

Grayslake starting pitcher Frank Fracek took the loss in giving up five runs in three innings of work. Pat Garvey was effective in four strong innings of relief.

Only a handful of Grayslake batters managed hits - all singles. Trevor Popp had two, while Scott Bierman and Garvey each had a hit. Both Grayslake runs came in the third. Popp had an RBI single, driving in Shawn Tobie. Garvey plated Bierman on a sacrifice fly.

Grayslake Post 459 stands at 12-9-1 overall and 7-3-1 in Tenth District League play.

Earlier, Crystal Lake Post 171 beat Grayslake 16-6. On a hot afternoon, Grayslake led 6-2 into the sixth inning behind Nate Gomez's pitching. But the relief could not hold after Gomez was lifted with the score 6-4. Crystal Lake went on to victory by the 10-run rule in the same inning.

Grayslake 3, Cicero Post Cougars 0: Bobby Lyne, of Carmel, and Jim Fracek, of Antioch, combined to pitch a near-perfect game for the victors. Lyne walked one batter in the fifth inning and put up nothing but zeroes until giving up a double with two outs in the seventh. Popp scored the winning run in the first by hustling from first to third on a Kurt Schmidt bloop single to right.

Grayslake 4, Appleton 3: A hard-hitting Appleton scored runs in the fourth, fifth and seventh innings against starter Steve Kuligowski.

See BASEBALL, page 11B

Quick hitters

Bobby Lyne

Bobby Lyne - Carmel

Bobby Lyne walked just one batter and gave up just one hit in a 3-0 win by Grayslake American Legion Post 459 over the Cicero Post Cougars. His walk came in the fifth inning. His only other hiccup came in the seventh when he gave up a double with two outs.

Jim Fracek

Jim Fracek - Antioch

Jim Fracek combined with Bobby Lyne to pitch a near-perfect game for the Grayslake American Legion Post 459 in its 3-0 win over the Cicero Post Cougars. Fracek relieved Lyne after he gave up a double in the seventh inning, and posted zeroes for the rest of the game.

Chicago Storm camp returns to Libertyville

Indoor soccer players, coaches to teach summer camp

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

LIBERTYVILLE - The Chicago Storm are pleased to announce the return of Chicago Storm Soccer Camps in Libertyville.

After a successful camp from June 11 to 14, the Storm scheduled a second camp at Libertyville Sports Complex on U.S. Highway 45.

The camp begins July 30 and goes through Aug. 3. It will be taught by Chicago Storm players and coaches.

"Libertyville has been such a strong supporter of the Chicago Storm both at the games and our summer camps that it just made sense to come back for a second camp this season," said Chicago Storm Camp Director Jennifer Drankie. "With more than 50 children already signed up for the upcoming camp, it just goes to prove how great a soccer community Libertyville is."

The Chicago Storm have been a part of the Major

Indoor Soccer League since 2004.

Chicago's professional indoor soccer team plays its home games at the Sears Centre in Hoffman Estates. Storm offices are at 1945 Cornell Avenue in Melrose Park.

For additional information on all aspects of Chicago Storm Soccer, including season tickets, group outings, birthday parties and Chicago Storm Summer Soccer Camps, call (866) STORM-81.

Bonds truly a San Francisco treat

SAN FRANCISCO - Are you looking for the best example of how being a sports fan allows people to overlook some serious shortcomings elsewhere? Then come to this city by the bay, where Barry Bonds and Giant fans are engaged in baseball's biggest and best-known case of Stockholm Syndrome.

Seriously, no bully has had this many hometown apologists since Bobby Knight ruled Bloomington. Talk to people around San Francisco and you get the feeling that Bonds could dump toxic waste into McCovey Cove and still have plenty of defenders to explain away his actions.

Playing here in his hometown, Bonds gets more pardons than a pen of presidential pals. He's been a Giant since 1993 and is as big a part of the city as cable cars, Haight hippies and dot-com startups. As such, the man closing in on Hank Aaron's record is made of Teflon at home, even as questions about alleged steroid use and personality deficiencies swirl everywhere else.

After years of watching Bonds and his fans from afar, I've grown more and more curious about their relationship. How is it that the bundled-up folks at AT&T Park consistently cheer every home run, the total of which now numbers 751?

And why will his start in Tuesday's All-Star Game bring the city its biggest love-in since the mid-'60s?

The questions, like some of Bonds' blasts, appear to be never-ending.

Do fans just choose to ignore all the evidence compiled in "Game of Shadows," the excellent account of the BALCO scandal written by two dogged San Francisco Chronicle reporters?

Or do they wrestle with the conflict between fond memory and damning evidence, much like Cubs fans now try to reconcile the quickly fading years of Sammy Sosa?

Turns out the answers depend on whom you ask. In an international city renowned for its diverse thought and population, there's no shortage of opinions as to why San Francisco hails Bonds the way it does.

The most prevalent answer seems to be the "innocent until proven guilty" approach. As he walked his three dogs along Fisherman's Wharf, Marc Manning went as far as to say he would need to see a needle in Bonds' posterior to completely turn against him.

"If Major League Baseball had something that said steroids were part of the drug policy, then yeah, he should be stripped of whatever he had earned up to that point," said Manning, a Giants fan for more than 40 years. "But, being that there was no rule against it [in 2001, when Bonds hit 73 homer runs], how can you say he broke the rules?"

That's not to say the fans are unaware of why Bonds provokes such ire among media and fans in other markets.

"I certainly don't think there are any illusions," said one clerk at City Lights Books, a non-Giants fan who asked to not be identified. "People know there's something there [with the steroid allegations], but they also know that he was far from the only one doing it. They see a guy who's unfairly being singled out as a demon, and that just doesn't add up for most people."

That the media gets lined up in the fans' crosshairs certainly comes as no surprise. Nor is the explanation that fans are willing to overlook almost any transgression as long as that athlete is producing for the hometown team.

"I'm a Dallas Cowboys fan, and for years we knew that Michael Irvin was involved in cocaine and a lot of other things," said John Daly, a Texas transplant living on Russian Hill. "But it didn't matter because he was a great receiver and he played for the Cowboys. It's like the [former NFL linebacker] Bill Romanowski effect. You hated him so much until he was playing for your team. Bonds and San Francisco are a great example of that."

There are other theories, of course. One bartender says that bandwagon West Coast fans are less demanding than other species, happy for the entertainment, no matter how it's produced. Another espouses the "everyone else was doing it" train of thought.

Hey, whatever helps to explain the way San Franciscans behave when it comes to the controversial Bonds.

In the end, all that matters is that in the near future everyone in AT&T Park will stand up when Bonds comes to the plate with a chance to hit No. 756.

"You know, some people will sit here and say what a jerk Barry is and that he can't run and he can't do this and that he should leave town," said Manning. "But do they pay their $20 to get in and watch him put that ball over the wall?"

"You bet your life they do."

Golf outing raises $30,000

College of Lake County Foundation's annual Joan Legat Memorial Golf Outing at Glen Flora Country Club on June 11 raised $30,000 to help fund scholarships for CLC students.

Libertyville Bank and Trust's team took first place with a score of 56 for teams in Flight A and included Bert Carstens, Joe Damico, Brad Nickerson and Bob Schachner. The foursome beat out the Grainger team in a scorecard playoff, who tied them with a score of 56. The Grainger team consisted of Ben Randazzo, Dave Hanson, Rick Steel and Dave Nawrocki. A team of CLC Administrators took third place.

Teams with handicaps from 65 to 100 made up Flight B. Armor Systems/Madison Investments won first place with a score of 64. The team included John Elder, Steve Drake, Steve Carl and Peter Haack. Aho/Marsh came in second with a 65 and First Midwest Bank won third place with a score of 66.

The winning team in Flight B with handicaps of 101 and above was Ricoh Business with a score of 68. The team consisted of Ron Pollakov, Rob Nelson, Steve Vogg and Scott Werling. Manhard Consulting came in second a 69 and UPS came in third with a 70.

In addition, individual contest awards were won by the following golfers: Brad Nickerson, Bob Schachner, Dave Hanson, Dan Riedel, Steve Lear, Maddi Dougherty, Dallas Delaney, Jim Frayn, Dave Nikolai and Bruce Osborne.

The CLC Foundation is a volunteer-based group that conducts fundraising for scholarships and a variety of projects and programs in support of the College of Lake County. During 2005-06, the Foundation provided 800 scholarship awards to CLC students, totaling about $400,000. The Foundation also funds faculty and staff initiatives to promote teaching and learning and supports the Robert T. Wright Community Gallery of Art.

Appleton mistakes lead to Grayslake victory

• BASEBALL

Grayslake scored twice in the first when Kurt Schmidt's triple scored Kuligowski and Garvey, so Grayslake trailed 3-2 in its last at-bat in the seventh.

After Lyne flied out deep to center, Grayslake's prospects seemed dim. Tobie reached on a passed ball after a swinging third strike. Scott Haines, batting in Nick Waldo's spot, scorched a double play grounder to the shortstop, who bobbled the ball. Both Tobie and Haines were safe.

Waldo re-entered to run for Haines. Leadoff hitter Popp then showed bunt, but with infielders charging and runners moving, he elected to slash a hit instead. His line drive to right had just enough distance for Tobie to score for second when the first baseman cut the throw home, tying the score at 3-3, with Waldo moving to third.

The first pitch to the next batter, Kuligowski, sailed wide of the plate and off of the catcher's glove. Waldo scored from third on the passed ball to steal a stunning Grayslake win.

Youth soccer team advances

Ela Elite (under-15 Girls), Sockers FC (under-14 Boys) and Chicago Magic (under-19 Boys) won the US Youth Soccer Region II title and will now advance on to the National Championship Tournament to be held in Frisco, Texas from July 25 to 29.

These three clubs were the last standing of 26 Illinois teams that advanced onto regional play.

Ela Elite, the traveling team of the Ela Soccer Club based in Lake Zurich, features players from all over Lake County, including Carmel's Cassidy Brown and Lakes' Alex Neal. The team qualified for Regional play based on their strong play in the fall session of the Midwest Regional League.

At Regionals, Ela dominated thru pool play outscoring their opponents 12-0.

In the semifinals, they kept up their stingy defensive performance defeating Michigan club, Vardarstars, 2-0.

The finale saw Ela give up their first goal of the tournament, but hold off a strong BV Stars Mallorca of Kentucky for the 2-1 title win.

The final leg of the USYS National Championship series will be at Pizza Hut park just outside of Dallas.

 ■ Last week: It was nighttime, and the weather was hot, but otherwise, Jamie McMurray won the Pepsi 400 with a sense of déjà vu. As with the Daytona 500, the finish was side-by-side, and as with the 500, cars were wrecking behind the leaders. As earlier, a caution flag didn't freeze the order. This time, though, the drivers were McMurray and Busch, not Harvick and Martin. McMurray prevented Kyle Busch from winning two races in the same day, and the Ford driver did it by the commanding margin of .005 of a second, tying for the second closest finish in Cup history. At the finish, Kyle Busch's best ally was his brother, Kurt, who finished third. McMurray graciously offered his thanks to Carl Edwards, who finished fourth behind McMurray, Kyle Busch and Kurt. Busch. Fifth-place finisher Jeff Gordon summed up the ending: "It was nuts out there, man."

WHO'S HOT AND WHO'S NOT

► Who's Not — Tony Stewart failed on a grand scale in his bid for three straight Pepsi 400 victories. ... Scott Riggs only made the race because it rained and he wound up 40th.

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Two more teams penalized for minor violations

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Because they perceived no intent to circumvent the rules, NASCAR officials were rather mild in penalties handed out last week to the teams of drivers Kyle Busch and Johnny Sauter based on irregularities after the New Hampshire race.

Both Chevrolets — Busch's No. 5 and Sauter's No. 70 — were found to have used unapproved parts and failed to meet minimum front car heights.

The punishment? Fines of $25,000 to crew chiefs Alan Gustafson and Robert (Bootie) Barker, along with probations through Sept. 19, and deductions of 25 driver and owner points from each team.

What next with plates?

Drivers are divided on the issue of whether or how the Car of Tomorrow will change restrictor-plate racing.

The Pepsi 400 marked the final appearance in a plate race of the chassis design that is being supplanted by the COT. The COT will be used for the first time at a "restrictor-plate track" in the fall at Talladega.

Denny Hamlin, who got his first win two weeks ago, thinks the COT will make a considerable difference.

"It's just going to make them like the truck races, really, where the guys are just all packed tight together, where now our cars are so slick that they're not handling the race track that well and we're starting to spread out," said Hamlin. "Now we're kind of going to take a step back and be back where we were. With the Car of Tomorrow, I think they're going to suck up to each other so much that you're just going to have a huge wad."

Jeff Burton wasn't so sure. "I don't know," he said. "Ask me after Talladega. It's too early to tell. I haven't driven the Car of Tomorrow on a superspeedway (i.e., a plate track). I certainly haven't been on a race track with 42 other guys. I don't know what to expect. I don't have an opinion on that. I don't have enough information to have an opinion."

Shakeup

Ray Evernham has put Scott McDougall in charge of Elliott Sadler's struggling No. 19 Dodge team.

McDougall, previously affiliated with Evernham Motorsports truck and ARCA teams, is now team director, replacing Josh Browne. Evernham prefers not to call the head of each of his teams a "crew chief."

Browne is returning to the organization's engineering staff. Evernham said Browne is "better suited to help the organization as a whole from an engineering perspective and our efforts in that area."

Corporate mumbo-jumbo — Dale Earnhardt Jr., who announced one major, international corporate endorsement (Sony) deal two weeks earlier, announced another on July 6 at the track. He is now a major corporate voice for Adidas, the shoe and apparel manufacturer.

Earnhardt again insisted he is endorsing Adidas because he likes Adidas and has been wearing its sneakers since he was in high school.

"When I'm approached about this stuff, what I think is 'cool.' That's the way I think," he said.

He then acknowledged the entry into the room of Kelley Elledge, his sister and business manager.

"They have business avenues they're always thinking about," said Junior, "and that's what I pay them for."

Talladega prez — Rick Humphrey has been named president of Talladega

Superspeedway.

Grant Lynch, Humphrey's predecessor, has been named Senior Vice President of Business Operations for International Speedway Corporation, Talladega's parent company. Humphrey has been vice president and general manager at the track since 2002.

Unlikely pair

Kevin James, most noted for his role in the television series King of Queens, was the race's grand marshal. Republican presidential candidate Rudy Giuliani was a ceremonial race official and was in the pace car when the Pepsi 400 took the green flag.

Royal birthday

Richard Petty, NASCAR's all-time leader in both overall victories (200) and official (i.e., points-awarding) wins at Daytona (10), turned 70 on July 2. Petty won a record seven Daytona 500s and three times in the summertime race.

FEUD-OF-THE-WEEK

Stewart
Hamlin

Tony Stewart vs. Denny Hamlin

The Joe Gibbs Racing teammates were running 1-2 early in the Pepsi 400 when, inexplicably, they wrecked. Stewart, who was running behind Hamlin when contact was made, expressed his anger at his teammate. Hamlin seemed mystified by Stewart's criticism but said he'd take the blame if Stewart said so.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his take: "Regardless of whether Hamlin's car slowed suddenly or Stewart rammed it, this was senseless. Joe Gibbs, who has enough problems to deal with in the nation's capital, tried his best to play down the rift between his drivers."

Shore fishers need to learn a few things to fish smarter

Reader Lorraine Daniels recently wrote: "I thought maybe you could give a novice fisherperson, new to the area, some information about good fishing spots. I live in Round Lake and my sister and brother-in-law love to fish. My sister will not go in a boat, so our fishing is relegated to shorelines. I did some research and was able to find out about McHenry Dam and Independence Grove. Do you have any suggestions for good shore fishing spots in the area? Where is Lake Defiance? Any assistance would be appreciated. Thanks."

This letter brings up a few interesting things I would like to address, especially at this time of the season.

This time of year isn't called the "dog days of summer" for nothing. The heat and humidity will beat you down and it doesn't do a heck of a lot for fishing, either. Unfortunately, many people choose July and August for family fishing vacations because it is a great time for swimming and various other water sports. These, though, are times that will try the patience of anglers.

May and June would have been the optimal time for Lorraine and family to experiment on the thousands of bodies of water that hold fish in northern Illinois.

In spring, the weeds just are starting to come up. Fish are waking up for the year and beginning to put on the feed-bag. In spring, shore anglers often have much more success than boat fishermen because the fish will come in close to shore to chase their prey.

Steve Sarley

Now that we are into July, panfish and gamefish will tend to stack up and hold tightly to the deeper edges of weedbeds. Weed growth can get so thick that it can be almost impossible for shore anglers to put their bait where a fish can find it.

What you need to do is to alter your fishing to the times and places that are most conducive to catching summer fish.

Bank anglers will find the most success during these hot humid days and their bluebird skies by fishing early in the morning and later in the evening. Middle-of-the-day walleyes and bass are exceptions in August and July. Hit the water before breakfast and after dinner if you are looking to achieve something more than a suntan.

To get around the weed problem, you have a couple of options. Topwater baits like buzzbaits and poppers can be fished over the tops of most weed growth. These are excellent lures to use in the summer. The popping and splattering that they produce will call fish in from a distance. I like small buzzbaits where the propeller is the same color as the skirt. Alter the speed of your retrieve or go with a stop-start retrieve. The hits will be dramatic.

Another option when weeds are thick is to go directly at the thickest weed cover by using plastic frogs. Use a stiff rod and heavy line. Throw your frog on top of the deepest weed patches. Let the frog sit still until the ripples on the water disappear, then jerk it and pop it. Make it act like a real frog would, hopping and scooting from weed patch to weed patch. You'll be surprised at how a bass will come up through the densest weed mats to inhale a plastic frog imitation.

You named a good summertime bank fishing spot in Independence Grove. Lake Defiance is in the Moraine Hills State Park near the McHenry Dam, but is tough to fish in the summer from shore. You really will need to rent one of the available jon boats.

To answer your question about good spots in the area, I can't give you a specific location, just a generality. If I'm not out on Geneva or Delavan on a deep-water bass bite or looking for late evening walleyes on the Chain, you more than likely will find me on area housing-development or industrial-park retention ponds.

These ponds are easy to fish. They are often less weedy than other bodies of water. These are my favorite hot-water honey holes.

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

FOX LAKE—Sam Oginni received some much needed help when arriving in the United States, now he is in the position to assist others.

Oginni is the owner of car dealerships in Fox Lake and Crystal Lake. Both Chrysler-Dodge lines, the Fox Lake dealership off Route 12 opened Nov. 4, 2006.

"We made a total change of the floor area and services, too. You learn a lot being around a dealership," Oginni said.

Oginni, 53, has his own rags to riches story that speaks volumes about determination. He arrived in the U.S. from his native Nigeria with less than $25. A pastor's family took him in in Minnesota.

Now, he hopes to pass along his secrets of success to his son, James Jr.

"Fox Lake is a lot like Crystal Lake, but just not as affluent, but it is getting there," Oginni said. He said he likes the Chrysler-Dodge line because of more products available.

Keeping up appearances at the Route 12 spot is important, he said.

Fox Lake and Richmond-Spring Grove Chamber of Commerce officials recently attended a ribbon cutting ceremony there. Long-time Fox Lake residents will know the spot as the former Sandy McKie Chrysler dealership.

Oginni's family hails from Ilesha, Nigeria, about 100 miles from Lagos. He started his career working at selling cars at a Pontiac dealership in Minneapolis. He has owned the Crystal Lake Pontiac GMC since June, 1995.

"I am living the American dream," Oginni said on ribbon cutting day, June 13.

"I love the people here," he added.

Service hours at Chrysler-Dodge of Fox Lake, 91 S. Route 12, are from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays and sales hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Friday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. For more information, call (847) 497-4200.

The building and the business were dedicated to God and helping the Fox Lake community. Oginni said the sales new to used are about 50-50 clip.

The Route 12 corridor is expected to be a growing one, with an approved hotel expected to begin next year.

Greg Lucas, pastor at St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Crystal Lake, says a prayer before ceremoniously cutting the ribbon to open the new Fox Lake Chrysler/Dodge on Route 12.

Sam Oginni, owner of the new Fox Lake Chrysler/Dodge on Route 12, shares a laugh during the opening ceremony for the dealership.

Ask American Profile

Q What can you tell me about Dean Jones, who starred in all those Walt Disney movies? Was he ever in the military?

—Patricia Rubick, Burns, Ore.

Disney star Dean Jones

Jones spent four years in the Army Air Corps before starting his acting career in Disney films such as The Love Bug, The Shaggy D.A. and That Darn Cat! In 1998, he was honored as a "Disney Legend" in recognition of his many starring roles for the studio. Now 76, he's president of the Christian Rescue Committee, an organization he founded to help individuals around the world persecuted for their faith.

Q What can you tell me about Sandy Nelson, the drummer from the 1960s? I still play his music and wonder what he's doing today.

—Christina Rhodes, Madras, Ore.

Nelson, a flashy, drum-playing superstar during rock 'n' roll's formative years, had instrumental hits with "Teen Beat" and "Let There Be Drums" in the late 1950s and early '60s. A motorcycle accident in 1963 necessitated the amputation of his right foot and part of his leg, but he continued to play afterward. Now 68, he's retired and lives in Boulder City, Nev. "I'm proud of the role I played in rock music," he says.

Q I recently revisited Gilligan's Island on DVD. Can you tell me what Ginger is up to now?

—Bradley Scott, Port Washington, Wash.

Tina Louise, 73, who played voluptuous castaway Ginger, lives in New York, her hometown, and continues to show up occasionally on television and in movies. Off-screen, she recently authored When I Grow Up, a children's book that uses animals to offer playful career advice to kids. "I have seen firsthand how much children take from books that let them explore what the world has to offer," says Louise, who also is a volunteer reading teacher in the New York public school system. "Child by child, I hope to help make a difference."

Gilligan's actress Tina Louise

Her book gives kids career advice.

Q Whatever happened to actress Elizabeth MacRae, who played Gomer Pyle's girlfriend?

—Carol Collum, Woodville, Texas

Though she's best known for her role as Pvt. Pyle's doe-eyed, drawling girlfriend Lou-Ann Poovie in Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C., the North Carolina-born actress also appeared in several movies and dozens of other popular TV shows over her three-decade career. She had a recurring role as Festus' girlfriend, April, in Gunslinger, parts in I Dream of Jeannie, Barnaby Jones, Kojack, Mannix, and Bonanza in the 1960s and '70s, and roles in the soap operas Another World, Guiding Light and Search for Tomorrow in the '80s. Now 71, she lives in Glenville, N.C.

Singer-songwriter Brandi Carlile

Q What can you tell me about singer Brandi Carlile and her connection to the TV show Grey's Anatomy, which has featured her songs?

—Rose St. Paul, Bay City, Mich.

The popular ABC-TV series Grey's Anatomy is set in Seattle, Carlile's real-life hometown, and has used songs from her 2005 debut CD as background music on several occasions. When making the music video for the title track of her new CD, The Story, Carlile, 25, incorporated several scenes from the hit series and gave the clip its world premiere on an episode in April.

Q Whatever happened to the little boy who played the alien's friend in E.T.?

—Matt Majors, Orangeburg, S.C.

Now 35, Henry Thomas came home to Texas to complete high school and attend Blinn College after starring in E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial in 1982. Although he went on to appear in some 40 different films and continues to act, he'll always be best remembered for the role of Elliot, E.T.'s loyal 10-year-old Earth buddy. ☆

Hometown Hero

Rescuing Champion Racehorses

Popcorn Deelites, one of the horses who played Seabiscuit in the 2003 movie, enjoys the life of a star at Old Friends, a horse rescue and retirement facility in Kentucky.

SEA BISCUIT (POPCORN DEELITES)

"Just look at this boy," says

Michael Blowen, gazing with pride across a Kentucky pasture at Ogygian, a champion 24-year-old stallion. "What a wonderful horse he is—won a 9 1/2-length victory in the Belmont Futurity in 1985."

Ogygian is one of some two dozen equine residents at Old Friends, Blowen's nonprofit horse rescue and retirement facility on Dream Chase Farm in Georgetown, Ky. (pop. 18,080). Old Friends provides a stately retirement for once-superstar racehorses and thoroughbreds when they no longer can compete or breed.

"These horses deserve some dignity and some respect," says Blowen, 60, a former film critic for the Boston Globe who left his newspaper job to pursue his passion and love of horses.

At Old Friends, horse-racing fans and other visitors can observe some of the sport's former superstars living out their sunset years in comfort. Among the farm's royalty is Popcorn Deelites, one of the horses who played Seabiscuit in the 2003 movie of the same name. Though the former champion continued to win races at 7 years old, he was beginning to develop health problems.

"I wanted to stop racing him, because I don't believe in hurting a horse," explains Popcorn Deelites' former owner, Las Vegas businessman David Hoffman. "When I investigated this program, I liked it that people were going to be coming to see him all the time, so he wasn't going to just be turned out in a field and forgotten."

Other popular horses at Old Friends once were the prides of the Kentucky Derby and other equestrian events around the world, setting and breaking records and winning millions of dollars. Now past their racing prime, some were donated by their owners or sold to Old Friends to become part of its living history farm of international equine stars.

"These are such amazing athletes," Blowen says. "It's like having Michael Jordan and Larry Bird in your front yard."

Blowen wasn't much of a horse fan growing up in Connecticut. But in 1981, his Boston Globe editor invited him to the track, and he was bitten by the racing bug. He became a part-time groomer and eventually went to work full-time for the Thoroughbred Retirement Foundation, which encourages adoption of championship horses that have been rescued from situations that threaten their health or longevity. In 2002, he moved to central Kentucky, the heart of horse country, and established Old Friends.

"Michael adores every one of these horses," says Cynthia Grisolia, a former Old Friends volunteer who now directs a public relations firm in Harrodsburg, Ky. "It's not hard to see that he was born to do this."

Open year-round, Old Friends is staffed mostly by volunteers and is supported by admission fees, fundraisers and donations from horse lovers across the nation. Visitors can tour the stables, touch the horses and contribute to a former champion's retirement fund. "For $100, you get a certificate of ownership, a retirement picture of the horse and his breeding record," Blowen says. "You can say you own a share of a Breeder's Cup winner."

One day, Blowen received a letter from a young girl who had just visited the farm. She had enclosed a $1 bill and a note of apology that she couldn't afford to send more. "I wrote her back and said, 'A dollar might not seem like much, but a dollar buys 13 or 14 carrots—so it means a lot to the horse.'"

Even though his days writing about film are behind him, Blowen will never forget something he once was told by legendary movie director John Huston. "He said, 'You can have the greatest script and the greatest music, but if you don't have a star and a story, you don't have a movie,'" Blowen recalls. "That's the way we feel about these horses—these horses are stars, and every one of them has a story." ★

Cover Story

Art on Wheels

by ALAN
ROSS
Contributing Editor

On a memorable day in 1981, Harrod Blank pulled into his high school parking lot in Santa Cruz, Calif., with his white Volkswagen Beetle sporting a new look. Blank had painted a large, colorful rooster—inspired by an art poster he'd seen—over most of the driver's side.

That act of expression catapulted Blank into a whole new identity. His status at school changed from uncool to ultrahip overnight, and the transformation spurred him to continue modifying his basic transportation.

"That encouraged me to do more far-out things, like putting a shot-up TV on the top," says Blank, 44. Now a filmmaker and author in Berkeley, Calif., he went on to become a creative guru to dozens of other car-decorating enthusiasts coast-to-coast—people who proudly consider themselves "art car" artists.

Blank created his first art car, Oh My God!, in 1981.

"People are in love with their cars," Blank says. "A real affection develops, especially if they've had it for a long time. It becomes part of their life, part of their identity. It's intertwined in who they are. Making an art car out of it has become a way of giving an old car new life."

Beyond paint

Car artists frequently go to outrageous extremes to turn their automobiles into one-of-a-kind works of self-expression. They come from every region of the country, says Blank, who adds that turning an auto into an art car is more involved than simply applying some paint.

"Painting on a car is one thing," he says. "Driving what you've painted takes it onto a whole other level. Suddenly the driver becomes part of the performance. It is very similar to the effects of a bumper sticker, only much more dramatic, because there's a little more 'distance' between a manufactured bumper sticker slogan and the driver."

Blank, the son of artist parents, has produced, written and directed two films on art cars (Wild Tracks in 1992 and the new Automorphosis), written two books on the subject, produced a TV special for PBS, hosts several art-car websites and plans to open a museum—Art Car World in Douglas, Ariz.—this fall dedicated to his passion.

In the early 1990s, before there was an Internet to facilitate online communities, Blank canvassed America the old-fashioned way, personally dropping in on 50 U.S. cities to introduce his first movie and book, and to seek out others interested in turning their vehicles into mobile pieces of art. Thanks to his grassroots effort, hundreds of artistically inclined car owners hopped aboard the art-car bandwagon, and the art car became more accepted within the greater world of traditional art.

"As far as I'm concerned, art cars are fun," says John Cavaliero, owner of the Cavaliero Fine Arts gallery in New York. "Everything that's done in the name of art is valid and is a legitimate expression."

BREATHING BETTER MAY LEAD TO A SECOND DANCE

People with COPD breathe better with SPIRIVA.

Spiriva® HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder)
FOR ORAL INHALATION ONLY

Brief Summary of Prescribing Information
INDICATIONS AND USAGE

SPiRiVA HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) is indicated for the long-term, once-daily, maintenance treatment of bronchospasm associated with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), including chronic bronchitis and emphysema.

CONTRAINDICATIONS

SPiRiVA HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) is contraindicated in patients with a history of hypersensitivity to atropine or its derivatives, including ipratropium, or to any component of this product.

WARNINGS

SPiRiVA HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) is intended as a once-daily maintenance treatment for COPD and is not indicated for the initial treatment of acute episodes of bronchospasm, i.e., rescue therapy. Immediate hypersensitivity reactions, including angioedema, may occur after administration of SPiRiVA. If such a reaction occurs, therapy with SPiRiVA should be stopped at once and alternative treatments should be considered. Inhaled medicines, including SPiRiVA, may cause paradoxical bronchospasm. If this occurs, treatment with SPiRiVA should be stopped and other treatments considered.

PRECAUTIONS

General

As an anticholinergic drug, SPiRiVA (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) may potentially worsen symptoms and signs associated with narrow-angle glaucoma, prostatic hyperplasia or bladder-neck obstruction and should be used with caution in patients with any of these conditions. As a predominantly renally excreted drug, patients with moderate to severe renal impairment (creatinin clearance of  $\leq 50$  mL/min) treated with SPiRiVA should be monitored closely (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Pharmacokinetics, Special Populations, Renally-Impaired Patients).

Information for Patients

It is important for patients to understand how to correctly administer SPiRiVA capsules using the HandiHaler Inhalation device (see Patient's Instructions for Use). SPiRiVA capsules should only be administered via the HandiHaler device and the HandiHaler device should not be used for administering other medications. Capsules should always be stored in sealed blisters. Remove only one capsule immediately before use, or its effectiveness may be reduced. Additional capsules that are exposed to air (i.e., not intended for immediate use) should be discarded. Eye pain or discomfort, blurred vision, visual halos or colored images in association with red eyes from conjunctival congestion and corneal edema may be signs of acute narrow-angle glaucoma. Should any of these signs and symptoms develop, consult a physician immediately. Miotic eye drops alone are not considered to be effective treatment. Care must be taken not to allow the powder to enter into the eyes as this may cause blurring of vision and pupil dilation.

SPiRiVA HandiHaler is a once-daily maintenance bronchodilator and should not be used for immediate relief of breathing problems, i.e., as a rescue medication.

Drug Interactions

SPiRiVA has been used concomitantly with other drugs commonly used in COPD without increases in adverse drug reactions. These include sympathomimetic bronchodilators, methylxanthines, and oral and inhaled steroids. However, the co-administration of SPiRiVA with other anticholinergic-containing drugs (e.g., ipratropium) has not been studied and is therefore not recommended.

Drug/Laboratory Test Interactions

None known.

Carcinogenesis, Mutagenesis, Impairment of Fertility

No evidence of tumorigenicity was observed in a 104-week inhalation study in rats at tiotropium doses up to 0.059 mg/kg/day, in an 83-week inhalation study in female mice at doses up to 0.145 mg/kg/day, and in a 101-week inhalation study in male mice at doses up to 0.002 mg/kg/day. These doses correspond to 25, 35, and 0.5 times the Recommended Human Daily Dose (RHDD) on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis, respectively. These dose multiples may be over-estimated due to difficulties in measuring deposited doses in animal inhalation studies. Tiotropium bromide demonstrated no evidence of mutagenicity or clastogenicity in the following assays: the bacterial gene mutation assay, the V79 Chinese hamster cell mutagenesis assay, the chromosomal aberration assays in human lymphocytes in vitro and mouse micronucleus formation in vivo, and the unscheduled DNA synthesis in primary rat hepatocytes in vitro assay. In rats, decreases in the number of corpora lutea and the percentage of implants were noted at inhalation tiotropium doses of 0.078 mg/kg/day or greater (approximately 35 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). No such effects were observed at 0.009 mg/kg/day (approximately 4 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). The fertility index, however, was not affected at inhalation doses up to 1.689 mg/kg/day (approximately 760 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). These dose multiples may be over-estimated due to difficulties in measuring deposited doses in animal inhalation studies.

Pregnancy

Pregnancy Category C

No evidence of structural alterations was observed in rats and rabbits at inhalation tiotropium doses of up to 1.471 and 0.007 mg/kg/day, respectively. These doses correspond to approximately 660 and 6 times the recommended human daily dose (RHDD) on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis. However, in rats, fetal resorption, litter loss, decreases in the number of live pups at birth and the mean pup weights, and a delay in pup sexual maturation were observed at inhalation tiotropium doses of  $\geq 0.078$  mg/kg (approximately 35 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). In rabbits, an increase in post-implantation loss was observed at an inhalation dose of 0.4 mg/kg/day (approximately 360 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). Such effects were not observed at inhalation doses of 0.009 and up to 0.088 mg/kg/day in rats and rabbits, respectively. These doses correspond to approximately 4 and 80 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis, respectively. These dose multiples may be over-estimated due to difficulties in measuring deposited doses in animal inhalation studies. There are no adequate and well-controlled studies in pregnant women. SPiRiVA should be used during pregnancy only if the potential benefit justifies the potential risk to the fetus.

Use in Labor and Delivery

The safety and effectiveness of SPiRiVA has not been studied during labor and delivery.

Nursing Mothers

Clinical data from nursing women exposed to tiotropium are not available. Based on lactating rodent studies, tiotropium is excreted into breast milk. It is not known whether tiotropium is excreted in human milk, but because many drugs are excreted in human milk and given these findings in rats, caution should be exercised if SPiRiVA is administered to a nursing woman.

Pediatric Use

SPiRiVA HandiHaler is approved for use in the maintenance treatment of bronchospasm associated with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, including chronic bronchitis and emphysema. This disease does not normally occur in children. The safety and effectiveness of SPiRiVA in pediatric patients have not been established.

Geriatric Use

Of the total number of patients who received SPiRiVA in the 1-year clinical trials, 426 were  $\leq 65$  years, 375 were 65–74 years and 105 were  $\geq 75$  years of age. Within each age subgroup, there were no differences between the proportion of patients with adverse events in the SPiRiVA and the comparator groups for most events. Dry mouth increased with age in the SPiRiVA group (differences from placebo were 9.0%, 17.1%, and 16.2% in the aforementioned age subgroups). A higher frequency of constipation and urinary tract infections with increasing age was observed in the SPiRiVA group in the placebo-controlled studies. The differences from placebo for constipation were 0%, 1.8%, and 7.8% for each of the age groups. The differences from placebo for urinary tract infections were -0.6%, 4.6% and 4.5%. No overall differences in effectiveness were observed among these groups. Based on available data, no adjustment of SPiRiVA dosage in geriatric patients is warranted.

ADVERSE REACTIONS

Of the 2,663 patients in the four 1-year and two 6-month controlled clinical trials, 1,308 were treated with SPiRiVA (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) at the recommended dose of 18 mcg once a day. Patients with narrow angle glaucoma, or symptomatic prostatic hypertrophy or bladder outlet obstruction were excluded from these trials. The most commonly reported adverse drug reaction was dry mouth. Dry mouth was usually mild and often resolved during continued treatment. Other reactions reported in individual patients and consistent with possible anticholinergic effects included constipation, increased heart rate, blurred vision, glaucoma, urinary difficulty, and urinary retention. Four multicenter, 1-year, controlled studies evaluated SPiRiVA in patients with COPD. Table 1 shows all adverse events that occurred with a frequency of  $\geq 3\%$  in the SPiRiVA group in the 1-year placebo-controlled trials where the rates in the SPiRiVA group exceeded placebo by  $\geq 1\%$ . The frequency of corresponding events in the ipratropium-controlled trials is included for comparison.

Table 1: Adverse Experience Incidence (% Patients) in One-Year-COPD Clinical Trials

Body System (Event)	SPiRiVA (n = 550)	Placebo (n = 371)	Ipratropium- Controlled Trials SPiRiVA (n = 356)	Ipratropium (n = 179)

Arthritis, coughing, and influenza-like symptoms occurred at a rate of  $\geq 3\%$  in the SPiRiVA treatment group, but were  $\leq 1\%$  in excess of the placebo group. Other events that occurred in the SPiRiVA group at a frequency of 1–3% in the placebo-controlled trials where the rates exceeded that in the placebo group include: Body as a Whole: allergic reaction, leg pain; Central and Peripheral Nervous System: dysphonia, paresthesia; Gastrointestinal System Disorders: gastrointestinal disorder not otherwise specified (NOS), gastroesophageal reflux, stomatitis (including ulcerative stomatitis); Metabolic and Nutritional Disorders: hypercholesterolemia, hyperglycemia; Musculoskeletal System Disorders: skeletal pain; Cardiac Events: angina pectoris (including aggravated angina pectoris); Psychiatric Disorder: depression; Infections: herpes zoster; Respiratory System Disorder (Upper): laryngitis; Vision Disorder: cataract. In addition, among the adverse events observed in the clinical trials with an incidence of  $\leq 1\%$  were atrial fibrillation, supraventricular tachycardia, angioedema, and urinary retention. In the 1-year trials, the incidence of dry mouth, constipation, and urinary tract infection increased with age (see PRECAUTIONS, Geriatric Use). Two multicenter, 6-month, controlled studies evaluated SPiRiVA in patients with COPD. The adverse events and the incidence rates were similar to those seen in the 1-year controlled trials. The following adverse reactions have been identified during worldwide post-approval use of SPiRiVA: dizziness, dysphagia, epistaxis, hoarseness, intestinal obstruction including ileus paralytic, intraocular pressure increased, oral candidiasis, palpitations, pruritus, tachycardia, throat irritation, and urticaria.

DOSE AND ADMINISTRATION

The recommended dosage of SPiRiVA HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) is the inhalation of the contents of one SPiRiVA capsule, once-daily, with the HandiHaler Inhalation device (see Patient's Instructions for Use). No dosage adjustment is required for geriatric, hepatically-impaired, or renally-impaired patients. However, patients with moderate to severe renal impairment given SPiRiVA should be monitored closely (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Pharmacokinetics, Special Populations and PRECAUTIONS). SPiRiVA capsules are for inhalation only and must not be swallowed.

Inspiration and admiration

Emily Duffy, 49, a folk artist from El Cerrito, Calif., with a background in fashion design, cites Blank as her inspiration. She turned her 1984 Nissan Sentra into a traveling tribute to artist Piet Mondrian by covering her car with the Dutch painter's trademark bright, bold rectangles.

"I wouldn't have done art cars if not for Harrod," Duffy says. "He feels art car artists need to be respected and treated like any other artist. He's the guru."

As you might imagine, unusual things sometimes happen to art car owners. Duffy once returned to her parked art car to find a $100 bill placed under the windshield wiper—an unsolicited gift in admiration for her creation.

Trial and error with prepping, paints, lacquers, adherents and other tools of the trade are par for the course for the car artist. Tim McNally, a graphic arts student at Montclair State University in Montclair, N.J., put hundreds of hours over several years into his Plaidmobile—an '85 Buick Skylark—before he was satisfied with his creation. "I ended up using different kinds of products and spray-on lacquers, and they weren't compatible," says McNally, 46. "I learned the hard way about what to use."

"I'm Irish," he adds. "People look at the Plaidmobile and ask if it's the 'official McNally tartan.' I say, 'No, it's generic.' Someone once asked, 'Clan Generic? Where are they from?'"

Jeff Lockheed, 53, owner of the Venice Cafe, a restaurant and bar in St. Louis, started painting art cars in 1985. He cites the total commitment required for "living" your art car.

"Every time you get out in it, it's a parade," Lockheed says. "People want to talk to you. That's the beauty of it. You go to the drugstore and come out and have to answer umpteen questions. I like it."

Blank offers one final challenge: "Take a paintbrush to your old car and see how it feels. You'll reveal a lot about yourself." ★

★ Steeped in Hops

by POLLY CAMPBELL

Tractor lights illuminate a trellis of hops on the 800-acre Desmarais farm in Moxee, Wash. (pop. 821), as workers cut down vines of the flavor-packed crop that gives beer its bitter taste.

From mid-August through September, farmers in the Yakima Valley labor nearly around-the-clock harvesting 75 percent of the nation's hops, an aromatic, perennial crop that has been grown in the region for five generations.

"The most efficient harvest is when you're working day and night," says G. Lee Desmarais, 62, whose grandfather George Hops are used to flavor beer.

Dale Gamache, Ed St. Mary and Gene Gamache grow hops in Moxee, Wash., known as the "Hops Capital of the World" since 1930.

Desmarais and uncle Louis Desmarais planted the family's first hop crop in 1904.

Meanwhile, on the 365-acre Gamache farm a few miles down the road, the hop harvest also is in full swing. "I've been doing it just about since I was born," says Gene Gamache, 53, a fourth-generation hop farmer. "You start out doing the grunt work, cutting ditches for irrigation, then you move up from there."

The story of Moxee, and the entire Yakima Valley, is steeped in hops. Charles Carpenter is credited with planting the first hops in the valley in the late 1800s. However, large-scale production didn't begin until a group of French-Canadian farmers, including the Desmarais and Gamache families, planted the crop and helped establish Moxee as the "Hops Capital of the World" by 1930.

Today, 42 farmers in the Yakima Valley harvest about 40 million pounds of hops annually—about 20 percent of the world's supply—on 21,000 acres of land, says Ann George, administrator of the Washington Hops Commission, based in Moxee. Only Germany produces more.

Before the harvest begins, local residents celebrate the region's hop-growing tradition each August during the Moxee Hop Festival. The festival, which includes a parade, music and family activities, was first held in 1947 to raise money for a community swimming pool.

Today, most of the money raised during the annual celebration supports the local library, 4-H clubs and civic organizations, says Stan Fortier, festival director.

Hops, which are native to North America, thrive in the region's arid climate and rich soil. Each spring, farmers clear the soil in preparation for new shoots that sprout from rhizomes buried 2 inches below. Once established, the plant produces a crop of cone-shaped hops each year, though most farmers replace rootstock every eight to 10 years.

Medicare Covers Erectile Dysfunction Correction

Nothing impacts the sexual health and well-being of a couple and their intimate relationship more than Erectile Dysfunction (ED).

Therefore, any treatment used must address the needs of both people involved.

The male erection involves a very complicated interaction of many of the body's systems. The natural erection process can be interrupted by many underlying disease states and/or conditions.

The most common underlying causes of Erectile Dysfunction are: Diabetes, Hypertension, Vascular Disease, and Drug Interaction.

For many, the first-choice of treatment for ED should be Vacuum Therapy.

Unlike drugs, pills, or injections, Vacuum Therapy is non-invasive and has no side-effects. Negative pressure mimics the body's natural function and produces an almost instant erection.

This uniquely simple technology uses the body's blood to create erection much in the way the natural process works and maintains erection for sexual intercourse. The big difference is with Vacuum Therapy you control erection with drug treatments the drug controls erection - not you.

In fact, Vacuum Therapy is predictable, reliable, and gives spontaneous results other treatments simply cannot claim. You and your partner will be able to control when, where and how long you want to be intimate.

Vacuum Therapy is also the only treatment that provides a significant therapeutic benefit while also creating functional erection.

Some men actually regain spontaneous erections as vascular health is improved using Vacuum Therapy. Countless couples have brought the joy back into their lives with the ED Vacuum Therapy systems.

Vacuum Therapy Systems are covered by Medicare and many insurance companies. That means little, if any out of pocket expense to you!

Vacuum Therapy Systems are safe, simple, effective, reliable, predictable, spontaneous and produces an almost "Instant Erection".

Each system includes an instructional manual, instructional video, pump head, cylinder, cylinder sizing inserts, loading cone, tension systems, personal lubricant, carrying case and LIFETIME MANUFACTURER WARRANTY.

Discount Diabetic also provides NO COST - Arthritis Heating Pads - covered by Medicare and many insurance companies! *Deductible and copay may apply.

Rich Van Horn, Marc Desmarais and G. Lee Desmarais are among Yakima Valley farmers who grow 20 percent of the world's hops.

In May, the new shoots are wrapped around twine and trained to grow up the string and over 18-foot wire trellises. "They just follow the sun and grow right up that string," says Marc Desmarais, G. Lee's brother, who tends 150 acres of his own hops and helps on the family farm.

Farmers irrigate the fields and guard against insects until harvest begins at the end of summer. Then they work 24 hours a day cutting the hop-heavy vines, which fall into a trailer and are transported to a building where a machine separates the leaves and debris from the hop cones.

The cones are dried in a kiln, cooled and packed into 200-pound bales before being trucked to the nation's largest breweries, such as Anheuser-Busch and Coors Brewing Co. Some hops also are sold to microbreweries or exported overseas.

Farmers in the Yakima Valley grow more than 30 varieties of hops, some with names derived from the Pacific Northwest, such as Cascade, Chinook and Willamette. "You try to grow what the buyers want," says Gamache, whose brother Dale and cousins Tim and Bruce also are hop farmers.

Generally, 4 ounces of hops are used to flavor a 31-gallon barrel of beer.

"More hops equal more flavor and add much more character to the beer," says Rich Van Horn, G. Lee Desmarais' brother-in-law and president of the family farm. "You want the nicest, greenest cones for the brewer."

And that quality comes through in the flavor of the finished product, says Van Horn, who likes to relax with a good beer after a hard day of work. "Good quality hops do make a better beer," he says. ★

RECIPE: Mexican Lasagna

American Profile

Gwen Swanson
Pukwana, SD

Mexican Lasagna

- 1½ pounds ground beef, browned
- 1 (16-ounce) can refried beans
- ½ teaspoon dried oregano
- 2 teaspoons ground cumin
- ¾ teaspoon garlic powder
- 12 uncooked lasagna noodles

- 2½ cups water
- 2½ cups salsa
- 2 cups sour cream
- ¾ cup sliced green onions
- 1 (2½-ounce) can sliced black olives
- ½ cup shredded Pepper Jack or Mexican blend cheese

1. Preheat oven to 350F. Lightly spray a 13-by-9-inch baking dish with nonstick cooking spray.
2. Combine browned beef, beans, oregano, cumin and garlic powder.
3. Place 4 lasagna noodles in bottom of baking dish. Spread half the beef mixture over noodles. Top with 4 more noodles and remaining beef mixture. Cover with remaining noodles.
4. Combine water and salsa. Pour over noodles. Cover with foil. Bake 1 1/2 hours or until noodles are tender.
5. Combine sour cream, onions and olives. Spoon over casserole and top with grated cheese. Bake, uncovered, until cheese melts. Remove and let stand for 10 minutes to set. Serves 8.
